CENSUS OF BOSTON.

WASHINGTON, November 17, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—We have your letter of the 15th inst. and appreciate the weight of the estimates you make tending to show that a defective enumeration was made of the population of Boston. Estimates of this character are plausible, but every precaution was taken to make a correct enumeration of Boston. (I presume you are familiar with the methods followed; they have been universally approved—no adverse criticism has been made of them.) Naturally we must give greater weight to the results of the actual enumeration than to estimates. The unusual industrial and social conditions existing during the last half of the past decade destroy the effectiveness of all estimates based on past experience.

The Census Bureau has received many complaints of defective enumeration at this census. These complaints have probably been due in many cases to the natural disappointment at the reduced rate of increase as compared with the rates of increase in former decades. Some of these complaints, from smaller cities, have been investigated, and in practically every case it has been found that no serious errors, which would have resulted in understating the true total for the city by any significant proportion, have been made. The population of the country and of most of the states and cities showed a much smaller rate of increase during the past decade than during preceding decades, and in the case of the United States as a whole the rate was much less than for any preceding decade in the country's history. The rate of increase for New York City between 1910 and 1920 was 17.9 per cent, as against 38.7 per cent during the preceding decade; for Chicago, 23.6 per cent, as against 28.7 per cent; for Philadelphia, 17.7 per cent, as against 19.7 per cent; for Cleveland, 42.1 per cent, as against 46.9 per cent; for St. Louis, 12.5 per cent, as against 19.4 per cent; for Pittsburgh, 10.2 per cent, as against 18.2 per cent; and for Los Angeles, 80.7 per cent, as against 211.5 per cent. The only two cities among the largest ten cities of the United States which showed increased rates of growth were Detroit and Baltimore. In the case of Detroit the increase was 113.4 per cent, as against 63 per cent during the preceding decade; and for Baltimore it was 31.4 per cent as against 9.17 per cent. In the cases of both these cities unusual conditions have existed which render them not typical of the group as a whole.

It is clear, therefore, that the falling off in Boston's rate of increase from 19.6 per cent during the decade 1900-10 to 11.6 per cent during the last decade, is not at all remarkable.

Your calculated total for the population of Boston, 808,457, would represent an increase of 20.6 per cent during the decade 1910-20, as against an increase of only 19.6 per cent during 1900-10; this in spite of the general falling off in the rates of increase in the population of the United States and of most of the states and cities, and despite the admittedly great decline in the influx of foreign-born persons to Boston.

The most serious of the errors made by your expert statistician is the assumption that the period 1915-20 was comparable with the period 1910-15, so far as departures from the City of Boston are concerned. The bureau considers it highly probable that such departures during the abnormal period 1915-20 were much more numerous than those which took place during the preceding five years.

The detailed tabulation, now being made by the Bureau, of the population returns for Boston will show the number of persons of school age. If it approximates the number returned by the municipal school census enumerators in 1920, and if the census returns show as many men aged twenty and over as were listed by the municipal canvassers in 1920, it will go far to confirm the accuracy of the Federal census. It is hoped that this detailed tabulation will be finished in the course of the next six weeks or two months.

In the third paragraph of your letter you state that "This small difference (referring to the difference of 3,660 between the increase in natives between 1910 and 1915 and the excess of births over native deaths during the same period) may properly be said to represent those surviving children who removed from the city from 1910 to 1915 in the natural course of changing conditions." As a matter of fact, the number in question represents the excess of departures of natives over arrivals of natives, regardless of their ages.

In the fourth paragraph of your letter you state that the net increase of foreign-born persons between 1915 and 1920 cannot be exactly determined but that, conservatively stated, it was equal to 26 per cent of the net increase between 1910 and 1915. You do not state, however, the process by which this estimate of 26 per cent was made. Did the person who made it bear in mind that the net increase in number of foreign-born person is the net result of three causes, namely, (1) arrivals of foreign-born persons; (2) departures of foreign-born persons; (3) deaths of foreign-born persons? Since the number of deaths of foreign-born persons during the ten-year period 1910-19, inclusive, as stated by you, was 40,562, it may be assumed that the number of deaths of such persons from 1915 to 1919, inclusive, was about 20,000. If there was a net increase in the foreign-born population of Boston between 1915 and 1920 the excess of arrivals over departures of foreigners must have been equal to the number of deaths of foreigners plus the estimated increase; that is to say, the excess of arrivals over departures of foreigners must have been about 26,000. This could hardly be the case during a period in which there was very little immigration to the United States and in which many foreign-born persons were returning to their native countries. Did the arrivals of foreigners in Boston exceed the departures of such persons by 26,000? This would be most remarkable.

Very respectfully,

SAM L. ROGERS,
Director of the Census.

November 18.

Referring to your recent school census, which was mentioned in the course of your interview of this date with the Assistant Director and Mr. Beales: Upon reference to your letter of November 15 it is found that the number of persons of school age (5 to 15, inclusive) enumerated at your recent school census was 140,356. This represents 18.8 per cent of the total population of Boston (748,060), as returned at the Federal census of 1920. This percentage differs only slightly from the corresponding one for 1910, which was 18.3. This very small difference may be readily accounted for by a change in the age constitution of the population during the ten-year period. In fact, an even greater change might have been expected, since all the men and boys who left Boston during the war period to enter the military and naval services (some of whom have not returned) were above the age of 15, and it is probable that the great majority of those persons who left the city to obtain employment in munition factories were also over 15 years of age.

ROGERS.

CONFERENCE OF SOCIAL WORK.

OVERSEERS OF THE POOR,
BOSTON 14, November 22, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In compliance with chapter 274, Acts of 1914, the following report of the Massachusetts Conference of Social Work is respectfully submitted.

The seventeenth Annual Conference of Social Work was held at Worcester, November 10, 11 and 12. Representatives of public relief boards (in-door and out-door relief) from state, cities and towns, and private organizations, and also representatives of industries made this conference the largest in attendance, and perhaps the most interesting, many of the business men of Worcester personally attending meetings and giving hospitality.

The program was industry and social work. All meetings were held at the Bancroft Hotel. At the opening session Wednesday evening, Dr. Samuel B. Woodward of Worcester, president of the conference, presided. After a few preliminary remarks as to the work and scope of the Massachusetts Conference of Social Work and the good results which he hoped would result from this conference, he introduced Peter F. Sullivan, Mayor of Worcester. Mayor Sullivan gave a warm hearty greeting and welcome to the members and delegates of the conference. He wished the conference success, and was proud of its presence in Worcester.

William M. Leiserson, chairman Labor Adjustment Board, Rochester, N. Y., spoke on the subject "The Human Factor in Industry" from the viewpoint of the public official. Henry S. Dennison of Dennison's Manufacturing Company, talked on the subject from the viewpoint of the employer and head of a large industry which employed many people. He emphasized the great improvement under which employees work at the present time as compared with twenty-five years ago. John A. Fitch of the New York School of Social Work declared that better results of social welfare means good relation between employer and employee.

The second session on Thursday at 10 a. m. was on health and industry. The chairman of this session was Mr. J. F. Tinsley, vice-president and general manager of the Crompton and Knowles Loom Works. Factory medical supervision was the first paper. Dr. Clark, who is medical examiner and physician for one of the largest manufacturing plants in Worcester, deems it essential that every employee in each manufacturing plant have a medical examination. He said no man should be employed in a factory whose physical condition would prove a menace to his fellow employees. The man with a weak heart should not attempt work which would be likely to produce sudden and serious results. A physical examination is expected to eliminate those unfit for certain kinds of work. The plant physician is ready to aid any case of accident. He is the health supervisor, which means that every man is given an opportunity for good health, everything being done to keep him well on the job and he gets advice so often necessary.

Dr. Arthur B. Emmons, 2d, Director, Harvard Mercantile Health Work, spoke on the store medical supervision. This is a comparatively new department in store business. There are twenty-five stores in Boston having medical supervision. Dr. Emmons said, as did Dr. Clark, that physical examinations by a store physician in a business house was the rejection of the unfit, and the placing of people where they belong. It was good for the employees in teaching them how to care for themselves, and it gave many an opportunity for medical advice and treatment who would otherwise neglect themselves because of the cost of consultation and medicine.

At one o'clock the delegates were invited to luncheon by the Rotary Club of Worcester. Two hundred and twenty-one members of the club attended and three hundred delegates. Robert W. Kelso, Commissioner of Public Welfare, was the speaker. Mr. Kelso welcomed the opportunity of addressing face to face a group of business men—real business men representing large interests. He said how essential it was that they should know just what was going on in Massachusetts in the way of social welfare and its needs. He said Massachusetts cared for in her institutions throughout the state a daily family of over 30,000 people. The amount paid for this work was about $16,000,000 from tax payers' money. Beside that, over 1,000 organizations in Massachusetts were spending about $24,000,000 for care and support and assistance in many ways for our citizens and people. As this is an enormous amount of money for a state of a little over 4,000,000 people to expend, he asked the business men to think it over, and help all that are in the work, whether it be city or state or town or private organization, as they could help us remove the cause so that some day we may have an outlook for better health and better citizenship.

The afternoon from three to five was given over to the inspection of the Norton Manufacturing Plant and its working and housing conditions.

At the evening session, Thursday, Robert A. Woods, Director of the South End House, Boston, chairman, gave an interesting account of his recent trip around the world. He said it was his privilege to attend many large public gatherings in the largest cities of Japan, China and India. He had the pleasure of addressing these gatherings, relating his experience in social and welfare work and the good results from such work.

The next speaker was Herbert C. Parsons, Massachusetts Commissioner on Probation. Mr. Parsons briefly stated the good effect prohibition was having on the state, lessening not only the arrests from drunkenness, but the other cardinal vices such as murder, robbery and disease, which is from about 20 to 40 per cent less. One of our larger institutions for reform such as Bridgewater, which had over 1,400 inmates a few years ago, had about 400 last year, almost a thousand less, and the past year there was not 200. In cases of nonsupport, on probation and giving support through probation agencies, a short time ago, some $800,000 was collected for families. The present year $200,000 more was collected, showing that prohibition gives these probationers more money for their families, and he hoped for better results as the years went on.

The next speaker was Thomas C. O'Brien, Commissioner of the Institutions Department, Boston. Mr. O'Brien prefaced his paper by telling us the good results of Mr. Woods' visit to the Orient. He had a visit from the members of the Japanese Commission who were interested in child welfare. This gentleman had a conference of over two hours, and was deeply interested in our method in doing this work. Mr. O'Brien's papers were interesting and enlightening, and showed his ability to cope with the different problems. We feel we have in our new commissioner a man who will co-operate with other departments for the best interests of the city.

At the fourth session, Dr. Ira N. Hollis, President, Worcester Polytechnic School, was chairman. Education in industry and commerce was the subject. Mrs. Lucinda W. Prince, Director, Prince School of Store Practice, Boston, told of her work as an educator of teachers for the training of employees in stores. Miss Bernice M. Cannon, Educational Director, William Filene's Sons Company, outlined the methods used in their store.

Miss Anna M. Kloss of the State Department of Education spoke of the aim of the Continuation School and the progress made since September, 1920, when this school was opened. Unemployed minors under sixteen years are required to attend Continuation School while they are in session for four hours a week. The employers must permit the minors to attend, and the time in attendance is included in the time in which minors may be employed with the forty-eight hours a week. By this law, it is intended in part to bring within the effective scope of compulsory education the period of adolescence and the period of critical improvement for the development and discipline of all the powers of mind and body.

Miss Mabelle B. Blake, Girls' Conference of Massachusetts, spoke for the recreation for girls in industry. A business meeting followed, and Mr. James Jackson of Boston was elected president for the ensuing year.

Roscoe C. Edlund, Hampden County Improvement League, was chairman of the fifth session. Miss Florence De R. Boom, Overseer of the Poor of Adams, told of the social service which the overseers of the poor rendered to the community and the difficulties they had to meet and overcome in smaller cities and towns. Relief work by the overseers of the poor means not only relief, but the reconstruction and the rebuilding of individuals and families, and an effort to remove the causes which made relief necessary.

Miss Catherine D. Hardwick, Director of Training for Community Service, American Red Cross, gave an interesting account of her work, and told how much community training has done for isolated communities.

The last speaker, Frank E. Wing, Director of the Boston Dispensary spoke on the union of organizations doing social work, and the benefit of centralizing and financing social agencies that would give to each organization according to its needs and avoid duplication of relief besides doing away with repeated appeals for money for each organization.

The facts presented and opinions exchanged at this session must tend to a closer relation of industries, education and commerce with social service work, both public and private. This closer touch will be helpful not only to those whose duty it is to provide for dependents, but will also accrue to the benefit of others who have hitherto been self-supporting by improving the industrial conditions under which they labor at present.

Yours truly,
MARGARET J. GOOKIN.

THE FUTURE CITY.

SPEECH OF MAYOR PETERS AT LUNCHEON OF KIWANIS CLUB, HOTEL BELLEVUE, NOVEMBER 23, 1920.

For one thing, we shall witness a growth in area and an immense expansion of population. In 1915 70 per cent of the people of Massachusetts were living in the thirty-five cities. Before the century is out, Boston will probably include all of what we now call greater Boston and will count its population by the millions.

But this development in size is inevitably accompanied by a congestion which the perverse ingenuity of architects favors and accentuates. There will have to be a great slashing of broad avenues so as to provide not only ingress and egress but cross-currents of circulation. There will be tunnels and more tunnels. There may be arcades and depressed streets and other devices. There will certainly be a great increase of motor travel, necessitating new methods of regulation. It is not impossible that we shall see passenger air ships. The city of the future will not permit the prevailing winds to deluge a residential section with factory or railroad smoke as happens in one part of South Boston today. It will put either the factories or the residences somewhere else.

It is plain enough that the cities are expanding in the scope of their governmental functions quite as rapidly as in their physical dimensions. For example, the city of the future, realizing the interdependence of its citizens, will concern itself more and more about health.

In the interest of its own health, of decency and of justice to the poor, it will scrap the slum and rigidly control housing. It will provide more and more open spaces and means of recreation. The war has taught us the value of that. One reason for the magnificent spirit of our American army was because their bodies and minds, and I will add their souls, were kept in good tone by wholesale exercise and innocent enjoyment. By similar means the city of the future will war on disease and crime and all forms of strain and nervous debility by striking them at their roots in the starved early lives of too many of the citizens.

It will educate its children in a practical manner, so that they may not have to be re-educated when they enter real life, and it will emphasize the education of character. It will give ambitious adults every opportunity for improvement which circumstances may have denied them in their childhood.

In short, the city of the future will do more, control more, and forbid more than the city of today; and, precisely because it will be larger and more complicated, its government will have to be organized in a more orderly and compact fashion. This is the present tendency in American cities. Nearly all the recent charter changes concentrate authority, either in the hands of the Mayor or of the so-called governing commissions. In Eurpoe, it is true, there is an opposite tendency. Instead of small governing bodies, elected by all the citizens, there are large city councils, elected by districts.

The scientific budget, with moneys all accounted for in detail and contracts awarded on merit and not by favor, is well installed and will be improved and extended. One thing is certain. We are moving fast and we must try to move forward. The American cities, flexible in their methods, bound by no fixed traditions and iron formulas, should always be free to adopt any measures, within the limits of law and justice, that promise to benefit their inhabitants.

COAL.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION,
WASHINGTON, November 20, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—After talking with you last Friday in regard to the anthracite coal situation in Boston, I conferred with our Bureau of Service, and am now in receipt of a memorandum regarding the general anthracite situation, a copy of which I inclose herewith for your information. In this memorandum mention is made of the New England Fuel Committee, of which Mr. Borden Covell is chairman, but I understand that this committee has had to do chiefly with bituminous coal, and that Mr. Eugene C. Hultman, as chairman of the Special Commission on the Necessaries of Life, is more closely in touch with the anthracite situation in Massachusetts.

If you have any reason to believe at any time that the movement of anthracite coal to Boston is being hindered either by an inadequate car supply at the mines or by faulty transportation conditions en route, I hope that you will communicate with us at once, for it is over such matters that our power extends. Upon such information as our Bureau of Service now possesses, however, it does not seem that transportation conditions are interfering with the movement of anthracite coal to New England.

Very truly yours,
JOSEPH B. EASTMAN, Commissioner.

MEMORANDUM.—November 20, 1920.

Referring to conversation with respect to the anthracite coal situation:

Your understanding is correct as to the fact that there are no transportation difficulties interfering at present with the free distribution of anthracite coal; further than the New Haven did have an embargo on almost continuously from the middle of April to about August 24 which interfered particularly with movement to Connecticut and Rhode Island.

The total production of anthracite this year is a little ahead of that of last year notwithstanding the interruptions due to the switchmen's series of unauthorized strikes beginning in April and the strike of the anthracite miners in September. The increase, however, was in steam sizes and not in domestic, the production of which at last accounts was slightly below the figures of 1919. Writing concerning New England, Mr. E. W. Parker, Director, Anthracite Bureau of Information, 437 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, wrote under date of September 30 saying "considering the interruptions to transportation due to the switchmen's strike and to mining operations due to the strike in the Pittston district, the distribution into all of the New England states for the first five months of the present coal year is, with the exception of Rhode Island and Connecticut, well up to the average, while to New Hampshire the shipments are in excess of what they were in the coal years 1916-17 and 1918-19, though not up to what they were last year.

In a letter dated October 14, 1920, Mr. Parker said: "One of the difficulties which has brought about the present situation has been the somewhat faulty distribution on the part of the retailers, who, not anticipating that there might be some interruptions to mining and transportation, have furnished some of their customers with a full supply, while others have received none at all or very little. I do not know that this is the case in Washington, but I do know that it has happened in some other cities."

As you know, there is a New England Coal Committee which has been looking after New England's fuel interests during the past few months, of which Mr. Borden Covell of Boston is the chairman. It is very probable that Mr. Covell has detailed information regarding distribution of both anthracite and bituminous throughout the New England States which might be helpful in consideration of the matter.

Considerable complaint has been received from New York City with respect to the reported shortage of anthracite coal there and to meet this situation seventeen of the largest anthracite producers have located as special committee at 120 Broadway, with Mr. K. F. Birmingham as chairman. This committee is undertaking to do three definite things: (1) get sufficient coal to New York; (2) supervise its distribution among the retail dealers, and (3) among their various patrons, not only in New York City proper, but also within the confines of Greater New York. This committee reported at the beginning of the week that they expected to have the situation well in hand by Wednesday, the 17th instant. They are working very closely with the Health Commissioner in this matter.

UNDERGROUND RAPID TRANSIT IN BOSTON.

The Boston Transit Commission, consisting of five members, two appointed by the Governor and three by the Mayor, began its official existence July 1, 1894, and ended it July 1, 1918, after seven extensions of the original term. It has constructed, under the authority of Acts of the Legislature, the following subways and tunnels, the ownership of which is vested in the City of Boston, and all costs to be covered by revenue from same, not by taxation: Tremont Street Subway, opened September 1, 1897, costing with subsequent alterations, \$4,416,000, the first municipal subway in the United States; East Boston Tunnel, under Boston Harbor and State street, opened December 30, 1904, costing \$3,336,000; Washington Street Tunnel, opened November 30, 1908, costing \$8,406,700 (including \$2,850,000 land damages); Cambridge Connection Subway, opened March 23, 1912, costing \$1,465,000; Boylston Street Subway, opened October 3, 1914, costing \$5,327,000; East Boston Tunnel Extension, opened March 18, 1916, approximate cost, \$2,450,000; Dorchester Tunnel, opened December 4, 1916, as far as South Station, on December 15, 1917, to Broadway, South Boston, and on June 29, 1918, to the Andrew Square terminal; amount borrowed to 1920 for the Dorchester Tunnel, \$10,750,000. Total cost, approximately, for all subways and tunnels, \$36,000,000 (against which a sinking fund of about \$5,600,000 has been accumulated from the revenue), payable mostly in 40 years from date of each loan (loans since 1911 payable in 45 years), annual interest averaging 3.8 per cent. These underground ways (about 8.9 miles in all) were leased to the Boston Elevated Railway Company (which furnished the equipment) for term of 25 years (except Tremont Street, 20 years) at annual rental of $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ per cent of net cost (except East Boston Tunnel which was at $\frac{2}{3}$ of one per cent of all annual gross receipts of said company). In accordance with chapter 741, Acts of 1911, the various leases were extended to July 1, 1936, the rental to be $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of net cost after expiration of the first-term leases.

By chapter 185, Special Acts of 1918, the powers of the Transit Commission, whose term expired that year, were transferred to the Mayor, Commissioner of Public Works and City Treasurer, or such person or persons not exceeding three, as the Mayor might appoint. By chapter 3, ordinances of 1918, the Transit Dept. was established as a regular City department, to be in charge of three commissioners.

ELECTRIC CURRENT, CITY HALL.

The following was received:

Office of the Mayor,
Boston 9, November 17, 1920.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Some time ago the Finance Commission made a report to me recommending that the City of Boston purchase electric current for use in City Hall and the Annex instead of generating current at the present power station. I engaged the firm of Arthur D. Little, Inc., to make a survey of the situation and to recommend what course should be followed. In the course of this investigation it developed that accurate conclusions as to the best policy to be pursued could not be reached until the city installed a new boiler feed water meter and an additional steam flow meter, and had the station electrical meters calibrated.

Whether or not it is determined to purchase current from the Edison Company as a result of the tests to be made by the engineers I have engaged, the installation of the equipment mentioned, it is believed, will result in a material saving to the city. The total cost of the equipment will be $940, and as the Superintendent of Public Buildings has no funds available for this purpose, I recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully yours,
ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

Ordered, That under the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be and hereby is authorized to transfer the sum of $940 from the Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Public Buildings Department, B-39.

On December 2 to bidders indicated in following communication and bids:

BOSTON 9, November 30, 1920.

To the Mayor of Boston:

I request your approval to award contracts for the removal of snow and ice to the lowest bidders in District 1, John J. Lane; in District 2, A. DeStefano Company; in District 4, D. M. Biggs Company; in District 5, B. E. Grant Company, and to the second lowest bidders, Coleman Brothers, Inc., in District 3; J. C. Coleman & Sons Company in District 6, and Beatty Construction Company in District 7.

My reason for recommending the second lowest bidders in the three last-mentioned districts is that the lowest bidder in each of these districts is John J. Lane, who is the lowest bidder in District 1. Our experience on snow removal is that no contractor is equipped to remove the snow from more than one district.

I attach a list of the bids received on November 26, after public advertisement.

Yours respectfully,

T. F. SULLIVAN,

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The bids on furnishing, delivering and setting up pupils' school furniture in various schoolhouses, submitted to the Schoolhouse Commissioners and opened on November 23, were as follows:

	Heywood Brothers & Wakefield Company.	Kenney Brothers & Wolkins.
Desks and chairs (Chandler pattern), wood, per set:

But one bid was submitted on cherry furniture, that of Heywood Brothers & Wakefield Company. On birch furniture two bids were submitted in the same amounts. Cherry furniture is, however, the standard furniture regularly used in the Boston public schools; and as the firm of Heywood Brothers & Wakefield Company has supplied the Schoolhouse Department with school furniture by contract for six years and their furniture has been satisfactory, the Board has voted, subject to the approval of your Honor, to award the contract to Heywood Brothers & Wakefield Company for cherry furniture at the prices named.

Respectfully yours,

J. P. LOMASNEY, Chairman.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

PARK DEPARTMENT.

Electric Light Service at Lion House.

On December 1 to Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc., as per following communication:

BOSTON, November 30, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—By vote of the Board of Park Commissioners, your authority is respectfully asked to award a contract, without advertising, for installing an underground electric light service to the Lion House now under construction at Franklin Park, to Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc., 24 Milk street, Boston, for the sum of $1,292.

We have asked for bids and have received the following:

Edison Electric Illuminating Company, 39 Boylston street, Boston, $1,370; Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc., 24 Milk street, Boston, $1,292.

Our engineer states that this service should be installed now, as the cost will be higher when the ground is frozen. As this work could not be started for at least three weeks (if it were advertised), with a strong possibility of frost in the meantime, excavation at that time would cost more, and for this reason the Board asks authority to award this contract without advertising.

Yours very respectfully,

DANIEL J. BYRNE, Secretary.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

Meters.

On November 26 to the Worthington Pump and Machinery Company as per following communication:

BOSTON 9, November 23, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In accordance with the request made by the Commissioner of Public Works, authority is respectfully requested to increase the number of meters to be furnished under contract awarded to the Worthington Pump and Machinery Company under date of April 22, 1920. The Supply Department has checked the contract prices of the Worthington Pump and Machinery Company for the meters desired by the Public Works Department and finds that the contract prices of the Worthington Pump and Machinery Company are considerably under the present market prices submitted by water meter manufacturers to this department. In view of this information I respectfully request that permission be granted me to increase the number of meters to be furnished under the contract of the Worthington Pump and Machinery Company by the following amounts:

Twenty 1½-inch meters; 40 2-inch meters; 5 3-inch meters, at a total cost of $3,800.

Respectfully yours,

G. J. CRONIN,
Superintendent of Supplies.

STATEMENT OF FINANCE COMMISSION ON REPORT OF ENGINEERS ON CENTRE STREET PAVEMENT.

BOSTON, November 26, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston;

SIR,—As a result of the Finance Commission's report of October 28, 1920, your Honor engaged R. Keith Compton of Baltimore, Clarence D. Pollock of New York City, and George W. Tillson of La Grange, Ill., a committee of engineers, to examine the pavement laid and being laid by the Rowe Contracting Company on Centre and Beech streets and Belgrade avenue, West Roxbury.

This commission has examined the two reports made by this committee of engineers for your Honor, dated November 10 and 11, 1920, and submits this further report to your Honor on this paving work.

These gentlemen examined this paving work and the contractor's mixing plant on Monday, November 8, 1920, under the following written instructions from your Honor:

As a result of the Finance Commission's report I engaged you gentlemen to examine the pavement already laid as I felt that it would be more satisfactory for everyone concerned were a group of absolutely disinterested experts to examine the pavement and render a report as to the type of work done under the contract.

I request that your committee submit to me after your examination replies to the following questions:

- (1.) Is the pavement in question constructed according to specifications?
- (2.) Has the city received full value in the pavement laid?
- (3.) What is your opinion of the specifications in our paving contracts?
- (4.) Would you recommend any changes in these specifications, and if so, what?
- (5.) What is your opinion of our present methods of inspection of street construction work?
- (6.) What is your opinion of our street paving policy?
- (7.) Would you recommend any change in this policy, and if so, what?
- (8.) What is your opinion of the report of the Finance Commission on the subject under investigation? I should like to have as complete a statement as you can make on this subject.
- (9.) Have you any further comments?

Only three of the foregoing questions, numbers one (1), two (2) and five (5), have any bearing on the contract for the paving of Centre street, West Roxbury. As to the first question:

(1.) Is the pavement in question constructed according to specifications?

The committee of engineers' answer is, "No, see our report of November 10." The report of November 10 further answers this question as follows:

We must conclude, however, that the pavement has not been laid according to specifications as regards the mineral aggregate, and that proper care was not taken to see that the specifications were carried out as to the grading of the mineral matter.

We find that Mr. Atwood did receive these reports from Mr. Flaherty and that he knew that the mixture was not according to specifications. He says, however, that he took these reports at once into the office of Division Engineer Sullivan, so that it would seem that both Mr. Atwood and Mr. Sullivan knew how the work was being conducted. Mr. Sullivan says that he told Mr. Atwood to see that the proportions were changed so that the resulting mixture would conform to the specifications, but this does not seem to have been done.

As to the second question:

(2.) Has the city received full value in the pavement laid?

Their answer is:

Not entirely. As noted in our report of November 10, the work has not been done according to the specifications on account of the variation in the grading and in the mineral aggregate. There is no doubt that the pavement would have been better and would have more successfully resisted heavy traffic had the wearing surface been made according to the specifications. Just how much, however, the financial loss to the city is would be very difficult to determine.

As to the fifth question:

(5.) What is your opinion of our present methods of inspection of street construction work?

Their answer is as follows:

As an answer to this question, we would say that the system, as we have found it, is that every piece of construction work has one or more inspectors, as may be necessary, assigned to it to see that the work is being properly done. In addition to this there is a general inspector who in reality, though it seems not nominally, has authority over all of these inspectors. He visits the work, as nearly as possible, each day to see that the inspectors not only are on the job, but also that they are satisfactorily performing their duties. In addition to this, all of the construction work is under the direct charge of Chief Engineer Atwood, who although nominally has authority over the inspectors, in reality does not seem to. The general inspector reports directly to the division engineer and the division engineer assigns the inspectors to the different pieces of work. It seems to us that by this method there is a conflict of authority, and that it is unnecessarily so. We do not feel that there is any necessity for the general inspector, but that all phases of construction work, including authority over inspectors, should be vested directly in the chief engineer, he of course reporting directly to the division engineer. We feel that the construction work should be so divided that it can be visited every day by an engineer, taking what time is necessary at each place, say from fifteen minutes to a half hour, owing to conditions. We do not think, however, that in a city covering as much area as does that of Boston where construction work is liable to be separated by many miles, and where, as we are told, there are now some twenty-two pieces of such work going on, that this could be done satisfactorily by one engineer. If another engineer should be appointed to assist Mr. Atwood and the office of general inspector be abolished, there would be practically no extra expense involved, and there would be no difficulty in placing direct responsibility upon every man connected with street construction. This does not seem possible at the present time.

The organization of the Highway Division provides that the chief engineer of Paving Service shall report directly to the division engineer and the chief inspector and other inspectors shall report directly to the chief engineer. As a matter of fact, this is not done at the present time. As we have already stated, the chief inspector reports directly to the division engineer and inspectors on the street are under his charge. With that arrangement there is always liable to be a dispute, if bad work is found on the street, as to who is responsible—whether it is the inspector, the chief inspector or the chief engineer. The arrangement outlined above avoids that possibility as the responsibility would be directly upon the chief engineer.

As an example of how this may work out in practice, we can state that when we visited Beech street on Monday last where concrete work is being carried on, we found that it was not being properly done. While the proper proportions of stone, sand and cement were undoubtedly being used, the mix was so made that the resulting concrete was not good, the surface being very rough, and the voids in the stone not being filled with mortar, and in many instances not having any mortar in them at all so that the stone could easily be kicked out by the foot, as was done by some of us. If one should attempt to fix the responsibility for this, the inspector would probably say that it was the engineer's business to look after this, and the engineer might retort that the inspector himself was responsible.

Regarding further this concrete work on Monday, we would say that we visited the same locality on Tuesday afternoon, and while there was no concrete work going on at that time, what had been laid subsequent to our visit on Monday was much better than what was laid before although even then it was not as good as it should be. The bad condition of the concrete observed on Monday can be improved by grouting all the loose places in the stone with Portland cement mortar. When we visited the work last Tuesday we took a sample of the wearing surface as it was being laid on Belgrade avenue. In order to determine if any change for the better had been made, since the laying of the Centre street pavement, we had this sample analyzed by the Arthur D. Little, Inc., of Cambridge. The result of their work showed a little excess of bitumen (9.3 per cent where the specifications call for from 7 to 9 per cent). The grading of the mineral aggregate while somewhat improved, is still defective, as it shows a deficiency in the 200-mesh material and too great an irregularity in the remainder. There is no reason why this grading should not comply with the specifications.

The information that resulted in the report of the Finance Commission of October 28, 1920, came from the daily reports of Bartholomew M. Flaherty, city asphalt tester. Your Honor's committee of engineers reported upon Mr. Flaherty and his work as follows:

Mr. Flaherty has a laboratory well equipped for making bitumen determinations, as well as the mechanical analyses of the mineral aggregates. His results are very consistent and his work seems to have been carefully done. We believe that his reports can be depended on.

These engineers state in their report that Mr. Flaherty's reports on the contractor's departure from the specifications were furnished daily to both the division engineer and the engineer in charge of the work, but that no action was taken by either of these officials.

Your committee of engineers also indicate in their report of November 10 how simple a matter it is to protect the city's interest in street construction of this character with an organization such as now exists, providing every man performs his duty regularly and promptly in the city's interest without fear or favor. On page 7 may be found the following paragraph:

It would seem that there should be no difficulty in having as simple a matter as obtaining proper proportions for a mixture carried out, when it had been determined what were these proper proportions. When such conditions exist, as did at this plant, where mixtures were made contrary to the specifications from day to day without material change, an inspector should have been placed at once at the plant, to see that the right quantities of the different materials were used, and if the contractor refused to obey instructions or for any reason continued to give the improper mixtures, the plant should have been shut down and work discontinued on the street. The plant itself seems to be equipped with the proper appliances, so that with moderate care a proper mixture could be obtained.

On the date of the first report of these experts, however, the city's engineer in charge of the work ordered the contractor's mixing plant closed, in the following letter:

Boston, November 10, 1920.

Rowe Contracting Company, 45 Milk street, Boston, Mass.

GENTLEMEN,—The following is an analysis of your Topeka mixture taken from Belgrade avenue, West Roxbury, this day:

ANALYSIS.	Per Cent.
Bitumen.....	7.0
Passing 200 mesh sieve.....	4.3
Passing 80 mesh sieve.....	6.6
Passing 40 mesh sieve.....	20.7
Passing 20 mesh sieve.....	28.9
Passing 8 mesh sieve.....	10.8
Passing 4 mesh sieve.....	7.0
Passing 2 mesh sieve.....	11.8
Passing 1-inch mesh sieve.....	2.9

This mixture does not conform to the specifications. You are directed to suspend the mixing of Topeka at your plant until you can demonstrate the plant's ability to produce a mixture that reasonably conforms to the Topeka specifications of your contract.

Yours very truly,

JOSHUA ATWOOD,
Engineer in Charge.

On the afternoon of the day following this notice, the division engineer in charge of the work notified the contractor to remove the asphalt mixture laid by it on the forenoon of that day, as appears by the following notice:

NOVEMBER 11, 1920.

Rowe Contracting Company, 45 Milk street, Boston, Mass.

DEAR SIRS,—You are ordered to remove the asphalt mixture laid by you this a. m. on Belgrade avenue, between Beech street and the railroad bridge.

Yours truly,

JAMES H. SULLIVAN,
Division Engineer.

The committee of engineers neither established nor brought to your Honor's attention any important facts concerning the Centre street pavement that had not already been established by the daily reports of Mr. Flaherty, the city's asphalt tester, and brought to yours Honor's notice by the report of this commission of October 28, 1920. The orders to the contractor to stop work and remove some of the pavement already laid, did result apparently from the report of the committee of engineers.

Therefore, the only result obtained from the investigation made by your Honor is the stopping of the work of the contractor and the order to remove a portion of the pavement recently laid. There are four executives in the Public Works Department, any one of whom could have stopped the work at any time for the causes shown by the reports of the asphalt tester, and known to them. It is unnecessary to say that your Honor also could have ordered the work stopped for any of the same causes. It comes down, therefore, in the opinion of the Finance Commission, to a failure on the part of the executives charged with that duty to protect the city's interest. Why they failed to act, with notice of the defective work brought to their attention daily, can only be ascribed to their disloyalty to the interests of the city.

The Finance Commission is of the opinion that your Honor has put the city to an unwarranted expense in employing expert engineers, the net result of whose service is to advise executive action in a routine matter, on conditions already known.

In your Honor's letter to this commission of November 15, forwarding copies of the two reports made by the committee of engineers, you state:

In concluding the affair, as stated in the Press last Saturday, I shall formally reprimand Division Engineer James H. Sullivan and Chief Engineer Joshua Atwood.

It is the belief of this commission that the neglect of the officials involved in this matter warrants a more effective disposition than the one you propose. Your Honor's proposed disposition is so far out of proportion to the degree of neglect found and the importance your Honor has given to the investigation, as to stimulate rather than to abate, further disloyalty to the city's interests in not alone the Public Works Department, but in every other department where such disloyalty may be now latent.

Respectfully submitted,

MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
JOHN F. MOORS,
JAMES M. MORRISON,
COURTENAY GUILD,
J. WALDO POND,
The Finance Commission.

ASSISTANT PHYSICIAN FOR DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

CONSUMPTIVES' HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT,
BOSTON, November 19, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The trustees have appointed Dr. Eli Friedman, 366 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, as an assistant physician for diseases of children at Mattapan for a period of six months, beginning November 1, 1920, to visit the children's wards. The position is without pay. I presume that the trustees may ask permission to grant pay later.

It was desirable that the services of this physician should begin November 1. There is no such position in the budget now, and consequently, no money for it. This was the reason for the appointment without pay. If the work expected of Doctor Friedman proves as valuable as it is thought it would be, undoubtedly, the position will become a permanent one and with pay, in my opinion.

Yours very truly,

JAMES MINOT, Secretary.

PREPARATION OF BUDGET.

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
BOSTON 9, November 23, 1920.

To the Heads of Departments:

GENTLEMEN,—Budget sheets are now ready and may be obtained at the office of the Budget Commissioner, 307 City Hall Annex.

Your attention is directed to the declining prices for many of the commodities used by the city, and various items in your estimates should reflect these reductions. The Superintendent of Supplies having a broad knowledge of market conditions will be pleased to advise you of present and future tendencies, with a view to uniformity in price estimates. You should consult him frequently.

The activities of the city must be carried on with the best possible service that can be provided out of the funds available under the law. Boston, unlike other cities in the state, has a limit of appropriating power beyond which expenditures cannot be made. It is important, therefore, that the new estimates be prepared as carefully as possible, in order to obviate the large amount of necessary "pruning" that always occurs in budget estimates not properly prepared.

County officials are requested to submit complete budgets as usual.

It is my desire that for the present, department heads defer the preparation of the items in the Personal Service Group; the items in all other groups, however, are to be submitted to the Budget Commissioner not later than December 15, 1920.

Very truly yours,

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

CONTRACT EXTENDED.

BOSTON 9, November 29, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In accordance with the request made by the Commissioner of the Public Works Department, authority is respectfully requested to extend the contract of the J. H. McCafferty Company for furnishing composition castings to the Sewer Service, from December 1, 1920, to January 5, 1921.

In explanation of this request would state that the reason for the same is that the delay in the completion of this contract was due to the uncertainty on the part of the Public Works Department regarding the type of hydrant and number of gates that would be manufactured in their machine shop.

In view of the explanation submitted above, I respectfully request that permission be granted me to extend the completion date of this contract.

Respectfully yours,

J. G. CRONIN,
Superintendent of Supplies.

COMMUNICATION TO FINANCE COMMISSION RELATIVE TO ENGINEERS' REPORT ON CENTRE STREET PAVEMENT.

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
BOSTON 9, November 27, 1920.

THE FINANCE COMMISSION, 41 Tremont Building, Boston 9, Mass.:

GENTLEMEN,—Your report of November 26 is received. In it you criticize my having engaged three experts to investigate the pavement laid on Centre street, West Roxbury.

The reports recently submitted by the Finance Commission on the Public Works Department have been such that my confidence in their fairness has been destroyed. Believing I could only obtain a fair report on the situation by calling in three unbiased experts, I did so, and the result justified my action.

The Finance Commission's report gave the impression that the city had been defrauded, either by the contractor, or by city employees, or by both. The report of the experts shows both that there was no fraud, and that the pavement laid was substantially of good quality. The only departure from the specifications was a slight variation in the mixing of the materials for the surface.

I engaged the experts because I desired to know the facts. The facts as demonstrated vary materially from the Finance Commission's report.

Your criticism that I should have dismissed or punished the city employees involved instead of merely reprimanding them, is noted. Both men concerned have been in the employ of the city for thirty-one years, and both have a record of honest and faithful service. I believe the reprimand was severely felt by them, and is, under the circumstances, all the situation calls for. Whether I am right or not in this belief, the responsibility, if one, belongs solely to me as Mayor.

Very truly yours,
ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

NEW HOUSE OF DETENTION FOR WOMEN.

Mayor Peters has appointed a committee to advise him in connection with a new house of detention for women prisoners in the City of Boston. The present House of Detention in Pemberton square has long been considered most unsuitable because of its small size and its poor physical equipment. The result has been that the justices of the Municipal Court have frequently been obliged to utilize such private agencies as the "Welcome House" and the "House of the Good Shepherd" as places of temporary detention for many of the girls and women appearing before them.

The Mayor has felt for some time that the situation was not only very unsatisfactory, but that there were phases of it which were a real menace to many of the women and girls arraigned in the municipal courts, and he is most anxious to provide a proper house of detention at the earliest possible moment. He feels that Boston ought to provide a place of detention which, in addition to discharging the function implied by its name, will be a fit place for women to remain in, and will give them the proper atmosphere and also spare them the humiliation and degradation of confinement in a jail with sentenced offenders.

Among the cases a house of detention as planned would care for, would be infectious cases where medical treatment over a short period would be necessary, and women with children might also be accommodated. The judges now because of their fear of a possible contamination to first offenders do not commit to the Suffolk County Jail. It has also been found that commitment to the jail pending disposition of a case has resulted badly—the first offender being improperly advised by the old rounders, and any co-operation which might have been secured under more favorable conditions, made impossible. It is strongly believed that much more effective work may be done with the female offender, and a larger per cent of first offenders salvaged, if it is made possible for the courts and probation officers to deal in a more kindly manner with the women confined in decent surroundings.

Thomas C. O'Brien, Institutions Commissioner, will be chairman of the committee, and the other members who have been asked to serve by the Mayor are Chief Justice Wilfred Bolster, Police Commissioner Hon. Edwin U. Curtis, Chief Probation Officer Albert J. Sargent, Mrs. Robert Homans, Mrs. Francis E. Slattery, Mrs. George R. Fearing, Jr., Miss Mary L. Brinn, chief female probation officer, and Carl Dreyfus, Esq.

VETO—THOMAS J. CONNOLLY SQUARE.

The following was received:

Office of the Mayor,
Boston 9, November 22, 1920.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen—I am herewith returning without my signature an order passed by the City Council on November 8 giving the name of Thomas J. Connolly square to the space at the junction of Columbus avenue, Tremont, Station and Texas streets, Roxbury.

I have several times before vetoed a similar order because it was the belief of the Board of Street Commissioners that the application of any new name to this general location would amount to a trespass on the name William Pynchon square.

On November 19 the Street Laying-Out Department rendered me a written report on this subject, a copy of which I am inclosing, as it explains the situation. Under the circumstances, I do not feel that I can sign the order in question.

Respectfully yours,
ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Street Laying-Out Department,
November 19, 1920.

Mr. E. V. B. Parke, Secretary,
Mayor's Office:

Dear Sir.—Your inquiry as to what is William Pynchon square, in the Roxbury district, has been considered. It is impossible to say where the line should be drawn. The area beginning at the abutment wall where the railroad passes over Tremont street to the point where Columbus avenue and Tremont street join, forms a rectangle, which in the absence of a definite line of demarcation, might fairly be considered as William Pynchon square.

There is nothing in the record to show what the intention of the City Council was in respect to distance when the name "William Pynchon square" was given to the rectangle. The order of naming states merely "that the square now known as Roxbury Crossing be known as William Pynchon square." At that time, as well as now, "Roxbury Crossing" was a colloquial term which was applied to a considerable territory.

In view of the uncertainty which exists in this matter may I suggest that the purpose of the friends of the late Thomas J. Connolly may be served by naming the space at the junction of Roxbury, Linwood and Gardner streets "Thomas J. Connolly square." It is almost as near to the Roxbury crossing of the railroad as is the space indicated in the recent order of the City Council.

Very truly yours,
JOHN J. O'CALLAGHAN, Chairman.

REPAIRS TO FERRYBOAT "JOHN H. SULLIVAN."

BOSTON 9, December 2, 1920.

To the Mayor of Boston:

On October 19, 1920, you authorized repairs to be made by the Richard T. Green Company to the ferryboat "John H. Sullivan," at a cost of approximately $2,500—this company having the only available marine railway at that time. When the boat was hauled out, it was found that the old shaft was damaged to such an extent that repairs could not be made and a new shaft was necessary. The installation of this new shaft necessitated the removal and replacement of the bulkhead and crossframes, and certain orders from the United States steamboat inspectors called for repair work which was not anticipated when the boat was hauled out.

The total amount of this bill is $4,489.23, for which I respectfully request your approval.

Yours respectfully,

T. F. SULLIVAN,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Approved December 3, 1920.

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

CIRCULAR FROM THE MAYOR.

MAYOR'S OFFICE,

BOSTON 9, December 6, 1920.

To the Heads of Departments:

GENTLEMEN,—Your attention is again called to the importance of submitting budgets which will more nearly conform to the amounts that may be appropriated than has been our experience in the past.

Market conditions indicate a considerable reduction in the prices of various commodities that should be reflected in our appropriations. In the preparation of estimates it is important that price bases for supplies and materials should be uniform for all departments. This will not be accomplished unless the advice of the Superintendent of the Supply Department is consulted and I understand that, despite my previous suggestion that he be consulted in all matters relating to prices of commodities, very few department heads have taken advantage of this suggestion. Department heads being aware of the great amount of time required of me in preparation of the annual budget should use the greatest care in preparing their estimates so that less time will have to be given to the revision of budgets.

This matter is of such importance that you will be held responsible for estimates that are not properly prepared.

Very truly yours,

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

SIR,—In compliance with your request of October 22, to advise you as to "what method might be pursued to secure more bidders on city work," and to explain more in detail a statement on that point made in the report of this commission to your Honor, dated October 13, 1920, the Finance Commission reports as follows:

The statement in the report of this commission of October 13, 1920, which your Honor wishes explained more in detail is as follows:

"Moreover, late fall and early winter street construction would not be necessary if the Public Works Department abandoned the notions that it apparently has, that only a few contractors are to do the city's business."

While the form and theory of procuring bids for city work and awarding contracts thereafter appear to be all that could be desired for the best interests of the city and in fairness to the contractors who wish to engage in city business, as a matter of fact in practice both the city's interests and the opportunity to contractors generally of competing in city work suffer because certain city departments favor certain contractors to the exclusion of others.

The reports of the Finance Commission contain many illustrations of the departure in practice from the intention of the law, as expressed in the theory and procedure to be followed. (See Finance Commission's Reports, Volume XII., page 130, and Volume XIV., page 119. Also private report to the Mayor, dated August 5, 1920.)

Some illustrations occurring during your Honor's own administration may be noted under the following headings:

1. Specifications designed, either purposely or by chance, to favor individual contractors.

A particularly good illustration is the contract for repaving Tremont street, between Dover and Northampton streets, with sheet asphalt. This contract, executed on October 29, 1919, provided that the contractor should submit a bid for the purchase of the old paving blocks on the street. The Finance Commission's representatives doubted the expediency of this course and suggested to the Commissioner of Public Works that some of the paving blocks might be suitable for relaying and therefore it would be good policy for the city to keep them for use on other streets. The Commissioner of Public Works, in answer to this suggestion, stated that a thorough examination had been made and that practically none of the blocks were suitable for re-use. There were approximately 800,000 granite paving blocks on that part of Tremont street covered by this contract. It was clear that no contractor, except one having a stone crushing plant near the work and having ample storage space could submit a low bid for doing the work.

Only one contracting firm fulfilled these conditions and, as expected, this firm was the lowest bidder. It has since developed that the greater part of the blocks were suitable for re-use and that they are in great demand by the Commonwealth, private corporations and neighboring cities and towns, the Commonwealth having already purchased about 240,000, or less than one-third of the total number, of these blocks for paving purposes for the sum of $18,000; whereas the city only received $2,300 for all the blocks.

2. Bids have been rejected apparently for no other reason than that an unwelcome bidder was the lowest bidder.

This custom has been especially prevalent during the present season in the Sewer Service of the Public Works Department. A good example was the awarding of the contract for putting a sewer in Chestnut Hill avenue, between Cleveland circle and Commonwealth avenue. This job was advertised three times and finally awarded to the bidder who was fourth from the lowest in the first competition, and second from the lowest in the third competition, at a price approximately $1,346.80 above the figure that the city might have secured had the lowest bid in the first competition been accepted, and valuable time was also lost. In each case the lowest bidder was a person of undisputed skill and financial ability. The ostensible cause alleged for the rejections was "unbalanced bidding," which an examination of the bids does not disclose only by a strained and unusual interpretation of the term.

Another variation of this method is illustrated by the bids for resurfacing portions of the Jamaica way, received on June 10, 1920. The bids publicly advertised allowed competition between various forms of bituminous sheet pavements. There were three bidders; the Central Construction Company was the lowest bidder, basing its bid upon sheet asphalt. The contract was awarded to the Warren Brothers Company, with your Honor's permission, after a certification by the Park Commissioners that they believed bitulithic to be a moresuitable pavement.

3. Many contracts for street construction are let so late in the year that completion is impossible until the following season. This practice obliges the contractor to estimate conditions in the labor and material markets of the following season.

There seems to be no reason why the majority of construction jobs should not be prepared during the winter season, so that the work can begin earlier in the year and the contractor take advantage of favorable summer weather. Nevertheless, it continues to be the custom to wait until late in the season, when good work cannot be done, especially as regards the laying of concrete, grouting pavement with cement or laying bituminous pavements.

As an example, a study of the contracts involving more than $10,000 of the Paving Service of the Public Works Department for the fiscal year 1919 showed the following:

March.....	$90,816 12
April.....	131,742 75
May.....	28,462 21
June.....	187,383 94
July.....	27,686 00
August.....	—
September.....	55,385 10
October.....	356,880 76

The only contractors who are likely to bid in October are those who can count upon favors from the department, such as disregard of time, elimination of onerous provisions in the contract, noncompliance with specifications, changes in the contract and the like.

4. Contracts are let without necessary preliminary work being done, in such a manner as to prevent any contractor not having a regular business and plant located in the City of Boston from doing his work economically.

This practice is common, particularly as regards the work let late in the season. A good example is the contract for repaving Tremont street, already referred to. This contract was executed on October 29, 1919, with the provision that it must be finished on May 15, 1920. Although it seems to the Finance Commission that it would be impossible to complete the preliminary work by the public service corporations, notably the Boston Elevated Railway Company, in time for the contractor to perform his work, officials of both the Public Works Department and the Elevated Railway Company insisted that the preliminary work would be done in time to prevent delay. As a matter of fact the neglect of such preliminary work delayed the time of completing the contract until September 20, 1920.

A second example is the present contract held by the Rowe Contracting Company for paving portions of Centre street, West Roxbury. The contract was executed July 6, 1920, to be completed November 15, 1920. The contractor has been delayed throughout the summer because the Boston Elevated Railway Company and the Edison Electric Illuminating Company had not finished their work. The result is that the work will be delayed for these reasons for about a year, with consequent inconvenience to the traveling public and additional expense to the contractor and the city.

There is of course an advantage in having necessary public service corporation street work done in conjunction with city work, but city officials should be certain that the corporations have the intent and the facilities of co-operating with the city contractors within the time specified.

It seems to the Finance Commission that the reply to your Honor's second request, namely, "How can the city secure more bidders on its work?" is largely answered in saying that discontinuance of the practices illustrated in this report would be a long step towards inducing more contractors to try for city contracts.

Interviews have been had by the Finance Commission with a great many contractors on the question of their competing for city work. A substantial number of these contractors gave as their reason for not bidding on city work the belief that, even if they were the successful bidders, performance of the contract would be impossible at a profit, on account of the obstacles and inconveniences which are placed in the way of successful bidders who are not in favor with the city's representatives. Letters from several of these contractors are on file in the office of the Finance Commission and may be seen at any time by your Honor.

The Finance Commission recommends that the suggestions outlined in this report be adopted by the city departments in the award and supervision of city contracts.

REPORT OF MUSIC COMMITTEE ON SUMMER BAND CONCERTS.

BOSTON, November 23, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In behalf of the committee appointed by your Honor to make recommendations to the Park and Recreation Department regarding summer band concerts, I beg herewith to tender a report of the past season.

The generous increase in the appropriation over that of last year, placed at our committee's disposal by your Honor, made possible the extension of its policy of supplementing the Sunday afternoon concerts in certain largely attended public parks, by a season of six weeks on Boston Common, during which two concerts daily (except Mondays) were given. This season could have been still further prolonged had it not been for the increase in the scale of the musicians' prices over that of last year, amounting to 20 per cent for the Sunday concerts and nearly 10 per cent for the more numerous concerts on Boston Common.

With regard to the concerts other than those on Boston Common, the committee, after due deliberation, unanimously decided to adhere to the policy adopted two years ago. This policy provided for the centralization of these concerts in certain localities, and for giving them only on Sunday afternoons, in preference to a wider distribution at divers places and times with the resulting loss in their merit and musical and recreative value. The committee was thus unable to recommend favorable action upon requests occasionally referred to it, to provide concerts or groups of concerts in various districts. The committee believes that if such concerts were to be impartially and generally assigned, there would inevitably result a marked decrease in the musical standard now assured by the policy of centralization. This belief is amply confirmed by past experience.

A schedule of the concerts is appended herewith, together with a statement of expenditures under the appropriation.

For the Sunday afternoon concerts on Boston Common the band again numbered forty men, including the conductor; for those at Marine and Wood Island Parks and at Jamaica pond, thirty men; for all other concerts, excepting that of September 12, on Boston Common, twenty-six men, always including the conductor. The concert on Sunday evening, September 12, on Boston Common, above referred to, was not originally included in the schedule but was made possible by the unexpended balance of a portion of the appropriation which the committee set aside at the beginning of the season for possible special contingencies, and through the further co-operation of the chairman of the Park and Recreation Department. For this concert the band numbered fifty-five men. This number afforded an opportunity to choose a program of special merit and to employ an instrumentation comparable to that of the best concert bands of the country, and to the standard recently adopted by the United States War Department for the more important army bands.

For all concerts the committee endeavored, generally with gratifying results to maintain the high standard of repertoire to which it believes the public is entitled, and of which the public has constantly shown its hearty appreciation. Experience, however, has demonstrated more and more that the most artistic results are dependent not alone upon excellence of personnel, and still more upon quality of leadership, but upon opportunity for regular and frequent performances under that same leadership. Although but for a comparatively limited period, this opportunity is afforded by the daily concerts on Boston Common, although the number of men engaged is smaller than that for most of the Sunday concerts. Up to the present time, however, here as well as elsewhere, results have been affected by two factors; one, the character of the instrumentation of much of the published repertoire, unless especially rearranged for the particular combination of instruments available; and secondly, but of still more importance as regards the performance of new works of interest, or of older ones of material difficulty, the fact that the rules governing the musicians' services provide for no rehearsals unless they are paid for in addition to the price paid for the concerts. This condition attaches even to such a reason as the one extending six weeks on Boston Common, when any rehearsal whatever, if held and unless paid for in addition to the concerts, must be by voluntary action of the musicians themselves. If this action is not unanimous, the benefit of such voluntary rehearsals is obviously lessened. The committee urges consideration of this question as one of the most vital matters to be taken up with regard to future seasons.

The public has again given evidence of its interest in the music provided by the large attendance at practically all the concerts and by its attentive attitude and discriminating applause. Particularly gratifying in these respects were the week-day evening concerts on Boston Common, which drew large numbers of auditors from outlying districts, as well as from the more congested sections of the North and West Ends.

Since the close of the season the Park and Recreation Department has arranged for the eventual improvement of the shade conditions and for a large increase in the seating accommodations around the Parkman Bandstand, in accordance with Mr. Shurtleff's plans, which were carefully considered and heartily endorsed by the committee. The committee recommends that the matter of a permanent and efficient lighting system for this bandstand be given consideration at as early a date as possible.

While the generosity of the appropriation placed at the disposal of the committee this year is fully appreciated, it urges the desirability of still further extending the season of daily concerts on Boston Common next year to the total of not less than eight weeks, without reducing the number of concerts given elsewhere.

At the beginning of the season Mr. Charles K. North, whose services upon the committee had been most valuable and helpful, was obliged to tender his resignation on account of taking up his residence out of the state. Mr. William A. McKinlay accepted the invitation extended by your Honor to take Mr. North's place on the committee.

The committee desires to place upon record its deep appreciation of the courtesy with which the Chairman of the Park and Recreation Department and his assistant received its recommendations and assured their realization. It desires also to express its recognition of the public-spirited co-operation of the daily Press in making announcement of the various concerts and programs.

REPORT OF FINANCE COMMISSION ON PETITION OF SCHOOL COMMITTEE TO INCREASE ITS APPROPRIATING POWER $1.05 PER $1,000.

BOSTON, December 6, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—In reply to the request of your Honor for the opinion of the Finance Commission on a petition of the School Committee to the Legislature for authority to increase its appropriating power in the sum of $1.05 upon each $1,000 of the valuation of the city, as determined for appropriating purposes, the Finance Commission submits the following in confirmation of the oral report heretofore made to your Honor by the chairman of this commission:

The different purposes for which appropriations are now made by the School Committee, the rates per $1,000 of the city's valuation allowed by law for these purposes, and the sums these rates yield on the estimated appropriating valuation for 1921-22, are shown by the following table:

PURPOSES.	Rate Per $1,000.	Sums Yielded.
General school purposes,	$5 37	$8,175,691 00
Land and new buildings,	*1 63	2,481,634 00

School physicians, nurses and care of children's teeth.	08	121,798 00
Extended use of school property.	02	30,450 00
Teachers' pensions.....	07	106,573 00
Americanization and citizenship.	02	30,450 00
Vocational guidance....	02	30,450 00
	$8 15	$12,408,173 00

* Until February 1, 1923, thereafter 68 cents.

† Until February 1, 1923, thereafter 35 cents.

In addition to the total amount which the School Committee is now empowered to appropriate, as shown in the foregoing table, the School Committee receives annually about $170,000 in income. The principal items of this income are from the Commonwealth for one half the net cost of industrial education in the trade schools, continuation schools and in practical arts courses, from the tuition of nonresident pupils from the proceeds of dog licenses, and from the proceeds received from sales of products of the trade schools.

The School Committee now seeks to have its present appropriating power increased as to four purposes, at the rate per $1,000 of the city's valuation and in the sums yielded as shown by the following table:

PURPOSES.	Rate Per $1,000.	Sums Yielded.
General school purposes,	$1 02	$1,552,950 00
Physical education.....	01	15,225 00
School Physicians, Nurses and Care of Children's Teeth.....	01	15,225 00
Extended Use of School Property.....	01	15,225 00
	$1 05	$1,598,625 00

These additional funds, the School Committee states, are now needed to meet the increased cost of fuel, light and school supplies, and to maintain the activities now carried on in school buildings, outside of the regular day and evening sessions, commonly known as "Extended Use of School Buildings," and to increase the salaries of teachers, school physicians and nurses.

Of the $1.02 additional now requested for general school purposes, the School Committee states that 43 cents is necessary to meet the increased cost of fuel, light and school supplies. The balance of 59 cents is to be used to increase teachers' salaries.

1. FUEL AND LIGHT.

During the last financial year the School Committee paid $7,570.44 for illuminating gas and $53,624.96 for electric light service. An estimated increase in this service, resulting from the increased selling price of both gas and electricity, the additional installations of electric service in old buildings, and the openings of new buildings equipped with electric service, will undoubtedly be not less than 20 per cent.

Prior to the coal shortage of three years ago, the School Committee purchased coal under contracts awarded on the results of advertised competition. The coal furnished under these contracts was subjected to chemical analysis by a competent chemist employed by the School Committee, and the quality purchased thereby assured.

During the past three years no bids have been received. At times it has been difficult to get coal in small quantities for immediate delivery. As is well known, during the past year the price of coal has advanced steadily. Soft coal has doubled in price in the past five months. During this year, up to June 15, the School Committee paid an average of $8.29 per ton for bituminous coal. Since that date the price has risen to $16 per ton and the last bought cost $16.75. Nearly three fourths of the coal used in the public schools is bituminous.

During this year, up to June 15, the School Committee paid an average of $10.32 per ton for anthracite coal. The price paid for the last bought was $16.75 per ton. Thus far this year, therefore the cost of coal to the School Committee has increased about 90 per cent, on an average of the kinds and qualities used.

Economy in the use of fuel and light in the public schools should not be practised too rigidly. To do so would imperil both the health and sight of pupils and teachers. It need hardly be stated that waste should be avoided in the use of both fuel and light, but the line between economy and waste should not be drawn too finely. Some waste without impairing health or sight would be truer economy than no waste with sight and health endangered.

At a conference of the chairman and business agent of the School Committee and the chairman of this commission, it was agreed that the increased cost of coal and light could be met, if a further allotment of eighteen cents on the tax limit for general school purposes was allowed to the School Committee. This is eight cents less on the tax limit than the School Committee had estimated, but is now acceptable to the School Committee and believed by the Finance Commission to be necessary. It will mean $274,050 more than is now available for fuel and light.

2. SUPPLIES AND INCIDENTALS.

Under this heading is included a great variety of articles purchased by the School Committee, ranging from books to pen points, among the items of pupils' equipment most readily recalled, and extending from musical instruments to grocery supplies.

Scarcely an item required in household and mercantile equipment but may be found now among the requirements in an up-to-date school system. Even the raw materials of the dressmaker, milliner, carpenter and metal worker are needed in courses pursued in the public schools.

The table on page 1048 gives the prices of books and articles most commonly used and amounting to the bulk of the outlay required in the school budget of supplies, and the increase in cost during the past year.

It would be false economy to attempt to maintain a school system costing millions of dollars, four-fifths of which cost is devoted to salaries of teachers and employees of the system, and not furnish both teachers and pupils with necessary educational supplies.

The School Committee appropriated the sum of $482,419.21 for supplies and incidentals this year. By close economy only will that amount suffice. It is estimated that the smallest additional amount necessary for this item next year at the prevailing prices, with no assurance that many of the more commonly used articles will not cost even more, is $243,000 which is the equivalent of an allotment from the tax limit of 16 cents. This is about $15,000 less than the School Committee's original estimate, or the equivalent of one cent on the tax limit. This estimate of increase seems entirely reasonable.

Therefore for Fuel and Light and Supplies and Incidentals, a total of 34 cents additional on the tax limit for General School Purposes the Finance Commission believes is necessary. This is 9 cents less than the School Committee estimated originally.

3. PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

Since 1907 the School Committee has been authorized to appropriate a part of the tax levy to promote physical education in the schools. (See chapter 295 of the Acts of 1917.) No better use can be found for public funds. Physical education promotes health, and health is better than education.

In 1896 one of the supervisors in the Boston Public Schools said of physical education, "I can conceive of nothing better for physical development than free play on a playground in good weather, but free play on a suitable playground in fair weather and near a Boston schoolhouse is, with a few exceptions, as mythical as the Elysian fields." With what delight that supervisor would view the changed conditions in Boston today were he living!

Not only are there now numerous playgrounds near schoolhouses fitted for playing out-of-door games during the school year, but also certain forms of physical education and organized play are provided for the children on these same playgrounds during the vacation periods.

In 1906 (see chapter 251 of the Acts of 1906) the Legislature placed school athletics also in charge of the School Committee.

There is now available to the School Committee, for the maintenance of physical education in the schools, the sum of $152,250, which represents 10 cents of the tax limit. The proposed bill of the School Committee would increase this amount by the sum of $15,225, or 1 cent more on the tax limit. About one half this additional sum is to be used to increase the salaries of teachers in this department. The other half is to be used for extension and growth.

The Finance Commission believes this additional appropriating power is necessary and should be granted to the School Committee.

4. SCHOOL PHYSICIANS, NURSES AND CARE OF CHILDREN'S TEETH.

(a.) Physicians.

The Legislature required the appointment of school physicians by school committees, provided boards of health failed to do so, under chapter 502 of the Acts of 1906. In Boston, school physicians were appointed and paid by the Board of Health from 1906 to 1915, when by order of the City Council the School Committee assumed the obligation. This transfer of authority was in the interest of both the health of the school children and the finances of the city. The payment of school physicians by the School Department, instead of by the Health Department, involves no additional expense to the city, while it permits the selection and control of an agency by that department of the city that knows best what the activities of this agency should be.

No additional funds, however, were made available to the School Committee, from which to pay school physicians. The necessary funds, therefore, had to be taken from the appropriation authorized under "General School Purposes," amounting to about $30,000. To this extent some other school activity, dependent on the same source for its support had to be curtailed, or possibly some necessary extension of the school system deferred.

This additional burden on the funds derived for General School Purposes was removed in 1919 (see chapter 206 of the Special Acts of 1919), by increasing the appropriation for nurses and including thereunder the maintenance of school physicians and care of children's teeth.

(b) Nurses.

The service of nurses in the public schools was authorized by chapter 357 of the Acts of 1907. It was the next logical step in the advancement of public health in the schools, following the authorization of medical inspection. A report of this commission in 1911, before school physicians were appointed by the School Committee, contains the statement that the work of the nurses "is a distinct help to the schools." Since that report the whole work of medical inspection in the schools has come under the direction and control of a single head, appointed by the School Committee, and has resulted in a co-ordination that was impossible before. It has increased not only the benefit of the nurses to the schools, but also the value of the work of the school physicians. It would be difficult to overestimate the value of the work rendered by the school nurses, not only in promoting the health of the school children, but also as an economic factor resulting in better health in the community generally.

(c) Care of Children's Teeth.

Modern medicine and surgery attribute to unhealthy teeth an amazing number of the ills to which the body is subject. Many of these ills seriously affect not only the body, but also the mind, and some are fatal. It is also established, in the medical world at least, that much, if not all, of the ill health of adult life caused by unhealthy teeth is preventable, if proper care is accorded the teeth of the young. The more progressive public school systems are now spending substantial sums annually on the care of the teeth of school children, which includes also the training of the children in the care of their own teeth. Thus far Boston has been able to get this work done, so far as it has been done, without extra cost. The Forsyth Dental Infirmary is doing this work for the school children. Indeed it is doing a great deal more than any school system could possibly do, and doing it better.

The only handicap is in the matter of transporting the children to this infirmary. There is danger to the health of small children traveling long distances on electric cars during inclement weather, and the necessarily large number that make these trips together, although under the care of a school nurse, increases the possibility of transportation accidents. Some accidents have already occurred. A safer and more direct means of transporting the younger school children to the Dental Infirmary would seem to be a desirable extension of this school activity.

The School Committee is now allowed an allotment of 8 cents on the tax limit, amounting to $121,800, for the maintenance of school physicians, nurses and the care of children's teeth. It now seeks by the proposed legislation to increase this allotment by 1 cent additional on the tax limit, amounting to $15,225. About two thirds of this sum is to be used to increase salaries. The Finance Commission believes that this additional appropriating power should be granted.

5. EXTENDED USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

For many years prior to 1912, the School Committee had granted the use of public school buildings to parents' associations, alumni gatherings, and many other organizations directly connected with the school system, without charge for light, heat or janitors' services. Obviously the School Committee could not permit any further extension of this sort of use of the school buildings, for the reason that if even a small fraction of those who applied were allowed the use of the school buildings, the financial burden of the School Committee would be so great as to require a curtailment of the regular school work.

The public demand for the use of school buildings resulted in chapter 195 of the Acts of 1912. This act provides for the use of public school property of the City of Boston for social, civic and other purposes under the regulation of the School Committee, and allowed the School Committee an additional allotment on the tax limit of 2 cents, amounting now to $30,450, to support these activities. Thereafter, school buildings costing millions of dollars were available to the fathers and mothers of the school children, as well as to the citizens generally, without cost, or, at most, at nominal cost.

To make proper and orderly use of the school property for the purposes indicated, it was necessary for the School Committee to establish and maintain an organization. This it has done with splendid results. A report of this commission in 1916 on this activity of the School Committee stated:

No city has yet devised a better solution of the problem presented by its adult foreigners than the establishment of school centers under the control of the School Department. In Boston this work is being carried on effectively at a small cost entirely out of proportion to the value of the service rendered. The department stands consistently for entertainments of educational significance and value. The lectures to foreigners in foreign languages are intended primarily for instruction in civic duty and responsibility.

The Boy Scout and Girl Scout organizations have been accommodated for meeting places in the school buildings under this activity without cost to them. Many other organizations during and since the close of the World War have made use of the school buildings to promote the public welfare, until this year the funds available have not been sufficient to meet the demands. Because of legal prohibition a transfer of funds from any other school purpose could not be made. The proposed legislation seeks an allotment of 1 more cent on the tax limit for this purpose, amounting to $15,225. This further allotment also the Finance Commission believes necessary.

6. TEACHERS' SALARIES.

The funds to maintain and increase teachers' salaries are derived from the tax allotment under the heading "General School Purposes."

The School Committee proposes to increase the salaries of the teachers indicated in the following table $216 each, if the proposed legislation is passed:

No. of Teachers.	Schools.

To make these salary increases it will require a further allotment on the tax limit of 59 cents, amounting to $898,275.

There have been four salary increases of the school teachers of Boston in the past forty-four years, when either all or a majority of the teachers received some increase. In addition there have been some small adjustments, such as increasing the maximum of a schedule, or the establishment of a new rank, or an increase granted to individuals, or to a rank affecting a small number. The first of the four increases referred to was granted in 1896.

In 1911 the elementary school teachers petitioned the School Committee for an increase in salaries. Their petition was denied by the School Committee, because of insufficient funds. The School Committee did not petition the Legislature for additional appropriating power, whereupon the elementary teachers themselves filed a bill in the Legislature. The Legislature acted favorably on the teachers' bill, increasing the appropriating power of the School Committee 10 cents on each $1,000 of the city's valuation for each of the years 1912 and 1913, 5 cents on each $1,000 of the city's valuation for the year 1914, and 25 cents, the total of these three amounts, for every year thereafter, to maintain the increase proposed and directed the School Committee to use the funds thus derived for salary increases. See chapter 708, Acts of 1911.

Four fifths of the money thus authorized to be appropriated was applied by the School Committee to increase the minimum salary of the elementary teachers $48 per year, and the maximum salary $96 per year. The other one fifth of the amount thus derived was applied by the School Committee to increasing the salaries of the other teaching ranks.

This additional appropriating power enabled the School Committee during the six years following 1911 to make small adjustments in the teachers' salary schedule from time to time. The great bulk of the elementary teachers were satisfied because they had already arrived at their maximum. In 1917, however, the discontent already existing in the ranks which had not attained the maximum became more and more marked, especially among those teachers who had but shortly entered the service, who were then receiving but $600 a year.

The high school teachers also manifested feelings of unrest because they had not received salary increases proportionate to those granted the elementary teachers. The constant increase in cost of the necessities of life further intensified the unrest. An appeal to the School Committee was made by the entire teaching force and all others employed by the School Committee in the spring of 1917. In that year the School Committee prepared a schedule of salary increases satisfactory to all teachers and others employed by it, in whatever capacity. The Legislature of 1918 granted the additional appropriating power necessary to put the proposed increases into effect.

By this legislation, chapter 132 of the Special Acts of 1918, the School Committee was authorized to add to its power of appropriation for general purposes 10 cents for the financial year 1918-19; 30 cents additional for the financial year 1919-20, and 10 cents additional for the financial year 1920-21, a total of 50 cents. To offset the effect on school funds caused by the decrease in the city's valuation in 1917, due to the withdrawal of intangible personal property under the law of 1916, an additional allotment of 17 cents on the tax limit was granted the School Committee for "General School Purposes."

The continued rise in the cost of living, the growing decrease in the number of candidates for teaching positions, and in the numbers entering the Normal and other teacher training schools, and the constant response of teachers to the call of business positions with attractive salaries, due to the abnormal demand caused by the war and the year immediately following its close, made it necessary for the School Committee to take up the matter of further increasing teachers' salaries in the fall of 1919.

As a result of the study of the situation prevailing not only in the city and state, but throughout the entire country at that time, the School Committee granted to all teachers in the elementary schools an increase of $384 a year and somewhat smaller increases to high school and all other teachers. The petition of the School Committee to the Legislature to authorize the additional appropriating power was allowed at the special sitting of the Legislature in December, 1919, and the increases in salary went into effect January 1, 1920. This legislation (chapter 249, Special Acts of 1919) increased the School Committee's appropriating power $1.03 on each $1,000 of the city's valuation as determined for appropriating purposes.

The School Committee has again studied the matter of teachers' salaries in the city, state and nation and has now decided that the teachers should receive another salary increase.

THE PROPOSED SALARY SCHEDULE.

It is proposed by the School Committee to increase the minimum salary of the elementary teachers from $1,080 to $1,296 per year, and the maximum from $1,752 to $1,968 per year. This will increase the salary of all teachers between the minimum and maximum by $216 per year each. In the high schools it is also proposed to increase the minimum salary of women from $1,452 to $1,668, and other grades correspondingly, so that a woman teacher on her maximum will receive $2,532.

Taking 25 of the largest cities in the country, Boston now stands in the minimum and maximum salary for both high (women) and elementary teachers as follows:

	HIGH.		ELEMENTARY.
	Minimum.	Maximum.	Minimum.	Maximum.
Boston's rank.....	15th	17th	17th	17th

A comparison of Boston's schedule with the other 17 cities will be found in Appendix B. The proposed salary increase will raise Boston's rank among the same cities as follows:

	HIGH.		ELEMENTARY.
	Minimum.	Maximum.	Minimum.	Maximum.
Boston's new rate.....	7th	11th	7th	14th

Prior to 1917 the substitute teachers available and serving in the Boston public schools were the equivalent, if not the superior, of many regular teachers in places not far from Boston. Moreover, a large reserve of teachers was always available, from which to draw the best teachers for permanent positions. The already high standards demanded of teachers entering the service were made still higher. But today, while the standard is being adhered to, many of the substitutes in the schools are not eligible for permanent appointment.

The teaching standard, even with the substitutes, has not yet fallen off sufficiently, however, to be more than negligible in results. On the other hand the falling off in numbers of those entering the Normal Schools, not only in Boston, but throughout the Commonwealth, and those naturally inclined toward the teaching profession in the colleges, abandoning that inclination for secretarial, business and mercantile positions, give reasons for concern for the standard of teaching three or five years hence. No better single step can be taken now to maintain present standards and to assure the future a proper standard of teaching efficiency than to make adequate salary provision for all teachers.

In 1898 the Legislature took the appropriating power for school purposes from the City Council, where it had theretofore rested, and placed it with the School Committee. By that act, chapter 400 of the Acts of 1898, the School Committee got its first authorization to appropriate a definite part of the tax limit for "General School Purposes" and for the "Repair and Alteration of New Buildings."

The amount allotted in 1898 for "General School Purposes" was $2.55 on each $1,000 of the city's valuation. The following table shows the allotment of the tax limit to the School Committee for "General Purposes" from 1898 to and including the proposed legislation:

‡ Proposed.

The sum thus made available to the School Committee in 1898 was $2,700,589. The sum that the proposed additional appropriating power and the appropriating power now authorized will yield to the School Committee in 1921 is $9,591,750, an increase over 1898 of $6,891,161, or 255 per cent.

In this same period the population increased 35.1 per cent, elementary pupils increased in number 32.2 per cent and the high school pupils increased in number 224.9 per cent.

During this period the town of Hyde Park was annexed to the City of Boston. The school system was thereby increased by two elementary districts, one high school, two evening elementary schools and one evening high school.

There are many other factors that go to make up the greater increase in the cost of schools than seems to be warranted by the increase in population.

INTRODUCTION OF NEW TYPES OF SCHOOLS.

In 1898 the city supported 11 high schools and 57 grammar schools and 1 special school, the Horace Mann, intended to give better training to children who were wholly or partially deaf. During the past twenty years there have been added the clerical high school, schools for training children with speech defects, open-air classes, schools for tubercular children, rapid advancement classes, schools for mentally defective, ungraded schools, schools for non-English speaking people, schools for semiblack, day schools for immigrants, trade school for girls, boys' industrial school, evening industrial school, continuation schools, and a commercial high school. All of the above mentioned schools are particularly expensive because they require specially trained teachers and the classes must be small in number.

For the purpose of showing the growth of high schools and the number of new pathways which it is possible for a boy or girl to follow, two high schools may be taken as representative, a district high school and the English high school. Prior to 1898 there were only two possibilities in a district high school; a general course, which was taken by most of the boys and girls entering the high school, and a college course, taken by those who intended to pursue their studies beyond the high school. Today a boy entering a district high school has five possible pathways from which he may choose.

1. A college course.
2. A course for Institute of Technology.
3. A commercial course, which may be divided into a course leading to accounting, merchandising, or secretarial.
4. A co-operative industrial course.
5. A general course.

The girls in a district high school may take a college course, a normal course, a commercial course, an industrial course, including cookery, sewing, etc., and a general course.

In the English High School in 1898 it was possible for the pupil to enter either a college course or the general course. In 1920 in addition to these courses a boy may take a course in American history, history of Boston, history of commerce, principles of parliamentary practice, economics, Latin 3 years instead of 1, German 3 years instead of a possible 2 years, Spanish 4 years, trigonometry, introductory science, physics 2 courses of 5 hours each instead of 1 of 3 hours, chemistry 2 courses of 5 hours each instead of 1 of 3 hours, bookkeeping 5 periods for 4 years instead of 2 periods for 1 year, commercial geography, commercial law, phonography 2 years, typewriting, merchandising, salesmanship, and drawing 4 courses of 3 periods each instead of 2 courses of 2 periods each.

Such a diversified curriculum means not only an increased number of teachers who are able to teach the various subjects, but also because many of these subjects are elective a smaller number of pupils are in each class, both of which tend to increase the cost of conducting the English High School.

In 1898 the course of study in the high schools required 60 diploma points for graduation or 3 years' work. It was, however, arranged so that any pupil wishing to come back for the fourth year could register and attain a second diploma providing he fulfilled the requirement of 16 additional points. In 1907 the course was lengthened to a 4-year course and required 80 diploma points for graduation.

In September, 1898, there was introduced into 6 of the high schools of the city a course in commercial education as an experiment. This was done in an effort to make the education of pupils in high school of more practical value. The emphasis upon this principle during the past few years accounts in some measure for the increase in the number of children in high schools. During the last 20 years commercial courses have been added to most high schools, and in addition a large commercial high school has been built which is devoted entirely to the teaching of commercial courses for the purpose of training boys to meet the various situations with which they will be confronted in the business world.

In addition to the commercial high school for boys there has also been introduced a clerical high school for the purpose of giving girls a commercial education to fit them for various lines of activity which it is possible for them to enter in the business world.

During the past twenty years it has been felt that boys and girls who wished to enter the industrial world were not having the chance for a training which would fit them to do the kind of work for which they were best fitted. As a means of giving them such an education, the boys' trade school and the girls' trade school have been added to the school system. These schools, however, are supported in part by money from the state.

REDUCTION IN NUMBER OF PUPILS PER CLASS.

In 1898 rules and regulations of the School Committee required that there should be on the average 56 pupils in each class above the first grade and 50 pupils in the first grade. In 1900 a reduction was made from an average of 56 pupils per class to an average of 50 pupils in every grade above the first and 42 pupils in the first grade. In 1907 to 1909 a gradual reduction was made and 44 pupils were required in all classes above the first and 40 in the first grade. In 1917 a further reduction was made to an average of 40 pupils in a class.

As the new types of schools were added as listed above, the number of pupils to be assigned to these special classes varied from 25 to 35. This reduction from 56 to 40 pupils per class on the average has added materially to the efficiency of the Boston school system. In view of the large number last year who failed of promotion—11,500—a still further reduction in the number per class would not only make for efficiency, but may well be an economic step.

TEACHERS' LEAVES OF ABSENCE.

In 1906 and 1907 the School Committee passed a rule and regulation which allowed teachers who had served the city for seven years a year's leave of absence on half pay for study or travel, and for teachers who had served the city twenty years a year's leave of absence on half pay for rest.

CONCLUSIONS.

The Department of Education of the Russell Sage Foundation has made a study of "Trends of School Costs" in the United States during the past 75 years. This study makes some comparisons of teachers' salaries with those paid to unskilled laborers and artisans as well as of the increased cost of public education as compared with the increase of school population. The following conclusions from this study may be found helpful:

1. The number of children in attendance at public schools is nearly four times as great now as in 1870.
2. The amount spent for public schools is more than 12 times as great now as it was in 1870.
3. For a period of 40 years after 1875 the salaries of men teachers appear to have remained on almost a dead level.
4. For these years up to 1915 the level was actually lower than in 1874 and 1875.
5. In a period of rising wages the salaries of these men teachers remained on the old levels.

6. It is significant in this connection that the percentage of men teachers in the schools of the country has fallen from 43 per cent in 1880 to 16 per cent in 1918.

7. Taken as a whole, teachers' salaries have increased less than 50 per cent since 1915. Four-fifths of this increase has been in the past two years and nearly half of it within the current year.

8. During the past five years the cost of living has increased 100 per cent while teachers' salaries have risen 45 per cent. Not only has the cost of living risen further but it has risen faster. It made a gain of nearly 50 per cent before teachers' salaries began to rise.

9. In 1918 and 1919 the teacher could buy less of the necessities of life than at any time in forty years. The situation is improved in 1920, but the same statement may still be made truly. The considerable advances in teachers' salaries within a year have thus far brought them back only about one third of the distance that they fell.

10. Teachers' salaries have consistently been lower than wages of artisans, but have been steadily gaining so that in 1915 teachers were receiving 75 per cent as much as such workers as blacksmiths, carpenters, machinists, painters and printers. The figure dropped to 56 per cent in 1919.

11. The salaries of city women teachers are similar in amount and general movement to wages of artisans.

12. City men teachers, in spite of increasing requirements, have made practically no greater percentage gains in salary in the seventy-five years from 1841 to 1915 than have artisans and laborers.

13. Since 1915 the pay of artisans and laborers has increased twice as much as that of teachers.

14. In relation to the laborer the average woman teacher was in 1918, 1919 and 1920 less well off financially than at any other time since the Civil War.

Appendix C indicates the percentage distribution of school funds during the past ten years, exclusive of new buildings and the repair of existing buildings.

Appendix D indicates the cost of the schools in relation to the cost of all other city departments for each of the past five years.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The Finance Commission recommends:

That your Honor approve the School Committee's proposed petition to the Special Session of the 1920 Legislature for power to appropriate on the tax limit the additional sum of 96 cents on each $1,000 valuation of the city as provided by law for appropriating purposes, to provide for increasing the salaries of teachers and others.

PETITION FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF KINDERGARTEN IN GERMAN-TOWN SCHOOL.

A communication was received from the Superintendent, under date of Nov. 29, 1920, to whom was referred at the meeting of Nov. 15, 1920 (see p. 212), a petition for the establishment of a kindergarten in the Germantown School, Robert Gould Shaw District, recommending that, in view of the recent adverse report of the Business Agent concerning the proposed establishment of a kindergarten in the Washington Allston District, the petition be referred to the next School Board.

PALMER METHOD OF PENMANSHIP.

A report was received from the Board of Superintendents, under date of November 19, 1920, in response to the reference at the meeting of September 20, 1920, of a communication from the Boston Elementary Teachers' Club, dated August 18, 1920, submitting the following expression of opinion, with accompanying recommendations:

(1) That the work in penmanship is being carried on in a manner productive of success, inasmuch as all teachers who have followed the directions and instructions given and the syllabi issued have produced results entirely satisfactory to those in charge, and it is confident that any misapprehensions or misconceptions in regard to the process to be employed in establishing fundamental habits will be eliminated ultimately through further conference and visitation with the Director of Penmanship.

(2) That it is patent the city over that thousands of children have acquired the ability to assume and to maintain habitually correct, healthful posture throughout all their written work, and that this correct posture "holds over" in nearly all the seat work of the day.

(3) That in the matter of speed and ease, there is no doubt but that children in the upper grades write with ease with the muscular system, the same amount of matter in less than two-thirds of the time formerly consumed.

(4) That the recommended discontinuance of the pencil as a tool for writing and figuring has been misunderstood. The use of the pencil for writing, when once the pupils are ready for ink, has been discontinued, and in this the Board of Superintendents is in complete accord. The Board of Superintendents is not opposed to the use of the pencil for figuring.

The Board of Superintendents recommends:

(1) That henceforward the time allotment shall be as follows:

Grade I., 150 minutes, the present maximum; Grade II., 100 minutes, fifteen minutes more than the present maximum; Grade III., 90 minutes, the present maximum; Grade IV., 90 minutes, the present maximum.

The additional time required by the above allotment is to be taken from the optional time indicated in the course of study for these grades. This increase of the time allotment is recommended in order that the fundamentals making for penmanship habits, posture, speed, ease and movement gliding into form may be stressed in the lower grades.

(2) That the time allotment in the eighth grade shall be sixty minutes, the present maximum.

The additional time required for this allotment is to be taken

(a) From the time assigned in the course of study for the eighth grade, after the item: "Reading and literature, and the word study necessary for both," or

(b) From the optional time indicated in the course of study for the eighth grade for intermediate schools and classes.

(3) That the use of the pencil, aside from drawing, should be confined exclusively to the process of figuring. In other words, if the teacher is dissatisfied with the results obtained in figuring with ink, she may use the pencil.

(4) The purchase of a higher grade of paper than the poorest now in use, when the prices justify the same.

The Board of Superintendents commends the recently established practice of the Schoolhouse Commission, to install larger sized desks in place of those that prove to be undersized. The Board of Superintendents is confident that the installation of proper sized desks will remedy a common and well-founded complaint that paper-moving in penmanship has been severely hampered by the size of some desks.

Placed on file, and the recommendations contained therein adopted.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Wednesday, December 1, 1920.

Meeting of the City Council in Minot Hall, Forest Hills, at 8 p. m., for the purpose of giving a hearing on the question of conveying to the Boston Elevated Railway Company an easement to locate, construct, maintain and operate an elevated railway (but not including the location of the supporting columns therefor), together with the right to construct, maintain and operate surface car tracks, sewer and drain connections and retaining walls in, upon and across a parcel of land at the junction of Hyde Park avenue and Walk Hill street, with necessary reservations to the grantor (the City of Boston) in connection therewith.

President MORIARTY presided. Absent, Councilors Lane and Watson. Assistant City Clerk W. J. Doyle was present as clerk. Trustee John F. Stevens, Counsel H. Ware Barnum, Esq., and General Manager Edward Dana represented the Boston Elevated Railway Company.

The papers in the matter were read, after which President MORIARTY announced that the Council was ready to hear those appearing, the objectors to go forward first as is the custom in hearings by the City Council.

The following speakers opposed the proposed granting of the easement to the road by the City of Boston, as residents about Forest Hills or representing property to be affected:

Patrick J. Brady, 3694 Washington street; Robert M. Morton, 1 Hyde Park avenue; Patrick W. Lydon, 64 Hyde Park avenue; Augustus T. Donovan, 101 Hyde Park avenue; Louis A. White, 28 Wenham street; John H. Logan; John B. Archibald, 89 Wenham street; James E. Kelley, 3585 Washington street; William F. Donnelly, 62 Wenham street; John B. McGinty, 93 Wenham street, and George Cherry.

The grounds of objection were that the proposed plan would be an injury to property owners and residents of the district; that it would mean the wiping out of a number of houses occupied by poor people, which certainly at this time, with the great shortage of housing facilities, was decidedly undesirable; and it was also feared that the repair shop contemplated would result in a great deal of noise, which would be a menace to the neighborhood from a residential standpoint.

Messrs. Stevens, Barnum and Dana, representing the road, stated that operating conditions had become so bad at Forest Hills, because of lack of room to provide proper facilities for handling the cars, for storage and for inspection, that it had been decided, in the interest of the traveling public, that something should be done. It is proposed to enlarge the tracking space, so that trains can be shifted and handled more readily, and to have an inspection shop, in which small defects can readily be taken care of. It is not proposed to do heavy repair work at Forest Hills, plans already having been made to handle such work at a general repair shop in Everett, for which thirty-five acres of land have already been procured. It is proposed to carry out the work in such a way that it will not interfere with or be a menace to those living in the neighborhood. Walls, etc., will be erected, so as to minimize noise. The road regretted the fact that the plans would mean the removal of certain houses at this time of shortage in housing facilities, but felt that a certain amount of inconvenience and injury to a few people could not be avoided in attempting to carry out important improvements which would be in the interest of a large part of the traveling public.

The granting of the easement by the city to the road was favored by John A. McCaig, 48 Oriole street; Francis A. Morse, 55 Hastings street; Arthur W. Joslin, 134 Stratford street; Robert T. Fowler, 143 Mt. Vernon street; John Hamilton, 140 Bellevue street, and John T. Hosford, 6 Boxford terrace.

The grounds stated for favoring the granting of the easement were that it would result in improved transportation facilities in connection with the Forest Hills terminal. At the present time trains are frequently delayed, because there is limited track space for shifting and moving them away from and into the platform, with the result that people have to stand for some time on the platform, frequently under unpleasant weather conditions; that the proposed inspection shop will allow minor repairs and immediate attention to such defects as flat wheels, etc., facilitating quick and comfortable transportation; and that the road should have more adequate storage facilities for cars and trains at Forest Hills, in addition to better facilities for co-ordinating the elevated and surface traffic.

John J. Reidy, 11 Rawston road, a member of the Roslindale Citizens Association, did not feel that the road should have the right to maintain anything in the way of a repair shop at Forest Hills, but thought additional space for storage of trains and cars was needed.

Mr. Cherry suggested a plan, which has already been considered in the past, for making an extension across the New Haven road as far as the cemetery, thus avoiding much of the local trouble now caused in the neighborhood of Forest Hills, which would be greatly increased by the proposed plan. Arthur K. Spaulding, 4390 Washington street, Roslindale, was inclined to think that Mr. Cherry's proposition should be seriously considered; but he did feel, balancing the considerations in favor of granting the easement against the objections, that the interests of a large section of the riding public should outweigh possible injury to a small number. He felt, however, that the interests of that small number should be fully taken into account.

Henry J. Barry, representing the Metropolitan Hills Citizens Association, also felt that it was a question of the greatest good of the greatest number, although seriously deploring the injury to certain people. He stated, however, that, while that was the feeling generally of the association, they had not committed themselves absolutely as a body in favor of granting the easement.

Andrew Marshall, 397 South street, Forest Hills, felt that the plan suggested by Mr. Cherry would simply mean exchanging one set of objectors for another, that the noise and reverberation would be a great nuisance to himself and others in the new district to be affected by such a plan.

Mr. Hamilton also thought that there would be more noise and annoyance to the people in the neighborhood of the present Forest Hills structure by the trains moving by them at high speed, under such a proposed plan, than there is now, when trains slow up or start up from the station.

Mr. Hosford also felt that the plan proposed by Mr. Cherry would have very serious drawbacks, and that the plan now under consideration by the trustees is, on the whole, much better.

A standing vote asked for by President Moriarty, of those in favor of and opposed to the granting of the proposed easement, showed a considerable number on each side. No one else desiring to be heard, the hearing was closed at 10.32 p. m.

REPORT OF MISS ELISABETH M. HERLIHY, SECRETARY CITY PLANNING BOARD, ON THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE MASSACHUSETTS FEDERATION OF PLANNING BOARDS.

HELD AT AMHERST, MASS., OCTOBER 15, 1920.

BOSTON, November 1, 1920.

To MR. RALPH ADAMS CRAM, Chairman, and Members of the City Planning Board:

I beg leave to submit herewith a brief résumé of some of the outstanding features in connection with the recent annual meeting of the Massachusetts Federation of Planning Boards, which I attended as the representative of the Boston City Planning Board.

The meeting was held in Amherst, Mass., on Friday, October 15, in conjunction with the Sixteenth Annual Convention of the American Civic Association. Held as the meeting was, in the midst of an agricultural community, the sessions partook more or less of the nature of their environment and many of the discussions were given over to subject of country planning as the correlative and complement of city planning. Country and city were said to be interdependent halves of one social and economic organism; that the interests of the two could not be separated, and that country planning and city planning, therefore, should always unite in one integral civic art for all the people.

The topic "An American Garden City; Where and How Can it be Established in the United States?" was discussed by Mr. Thomas Adams, Town Planner for Canada, based upon his experience as manager of the model garden city of Letchworth, England. In this connection Mr. Adams told in detail of the purchase in 1903 of about four thousand acres of land within thirty-four miles of London where, with the aid of a few people with private funds, not as a government supported institution, they started to build a new town. Today there are over thirteen thousand people there,—many of them having come from the slums of London, enjoying every facility and amenity which a community requires. This garden city was created, not as an arbitrary project, but merely by recognizing certain natural tendencies and applying modern intelligence and knowledge to their organization and development. Mr. Adams declared it to be not only possible but entirely feasible to create a similar garden city near Boston, the first step being the purchase of an agricultural estate unhampered by existing urban development on which to establish an industrial and residential town, with a restriction of area to retain a large part of the site for agricultural purposes. One such garden city would, he felt, lead to others as one good scheme is sure to be followed by others.

Furthermore, in Mr. Adams' opinion, a garden city is needed in America as a practical object lesson of how to solve many problems in connection with the building of cities and towns. He declared that the housing problem was only a part of a wider social problem connected with community life in all its phases, and that it cannot be solved merely by demolishing insanitary houses and erecting sanitary rookeries; that it was largely a problem of the proper or improper development of the land for the purpose of industry and shelter; and largely a problem of the proper or improper organization of the social forces of industry. The close connection between town planning and housing, between industrial efficiency and housing, between agricultural production and housing, and between war efficiency and housing, he declared was not yet realized on this continent, and that not until the western nations had special departments of federal and state governments devoting their whole attention to the problems of community development and housing, would they have begun to show adequate recognition of the importance of these problems.

The industrial community, Mr. Adams declared to be probably the worst product of civilization in all countries, and furthermore, that the United States and Canada had nothing much better to show in that regard than in some of those countries generally considered decadent. Absence of wholesome industrial communities Mr. Adams claimed was due, not so much to failure of effort in the attempt to build them, as to the very lack of effort; that reform of our system of land and housing development was not needed so much as the employment of system; that the application of scientific method to the control and direction of community life without interference with equality of opportunity for all citizens would tend, not to endanger legitimate interests in property but to establish them; not to inaugurate socialistic extremes but to forestall them; not to lessen liberty, but to make it more widespread. Recognizing that life is more important than property, that the aim of all production is life, not money, and that real national wealth should be measured by the health of the people, Mr. Adams declared that property must be developed so that it shall not endanger the right of the people to work and live in wholesome surroundings, or inevitable decay must be faced.

Motion pictures were shown by Mr.

Adams of the garden cities of England, including Letchworth, Hampstead, Well Hall, Gretna and of housing developments in Wales.

It has been the consistent policy of the British government in its housing projects to make them permanent enterprises rather than temporary ones, except where urgency made it impossible to wait upon permanent construction, the difference in cost being found to be measured by a small margin. This decision has been also influenced by the conviction that nothing is harder to be rid of than a temporary building, and that many temporary buildings erected to meet emergencies, even in our own country, are today doing duty as slums.

The billboard question discussed by Mr. Edward T. Hartman of the Massachusetts Civic League was of timely interest in view of recent legislation, and public hearings held with reference thereto.

The subject of Civic Centers was discussed briefly by Mr. William Roger Greely of the Federation of Massachusetts Planning Boards. His remarks were later emphasized by my own opportunity to visit the municipal group at Springfield, erected at an expense of $2,000,000, consisting of an administration building for city offices, an auditorium with a seating capacity of 4,500, with ample room for exhibition purposes; the Campanile piercing the sky for 300 feet, from the top of which, reached by elevator, may be had an incomparable view of the Connecticut Valley, and a municipal chime of twelve bells installed at an expense of $10,000.

The problem of organizing the country to compete with city life was declared to be one that involves the fundamental problem of food for the nation. The subject was discussed by Mr. Hugh McRae of Wilmington, S. C., and by Dr. Albert Shaw, editor, Review of Reviews, of New York, who declared that in the absence of any program for country life that will attract the city man or farmer boy, the farmer had been losing for fifty years, and would continue to do so unless business and governmental agencies came to the rescue.

Ten years ago the country had a majority of 7,000,000 over the population of the cities; today, according to the census figures, the cities have a majority of 4,000,000 over the population of the country. The new census will show that there are some 18,000,000 homes in this country; also it will show, for the first time in our history, that more than half of these homes are in towns and cities. While at first glance this may seem a subject apart from city planning, it is a fact that on the daily effort that emanates from the homes in the rural districts all of us are dependent for the essentials of life, food, raiment and shelter. It is the fruitage of this effort that produces nearly every pound of raw material upon which our vast industrial production is based. It is this fruitage in its natural state and as transformed through manufacturing processes which turns the wheels of transportation and underlies all commercial activity.

Fundamentally the problems of city and country are not essentially different. The poverty and overcrowding of the big cities on the one hand and the poverty and isolation of the remote rural district on the other hand, both tend to destroy intelligence and to promote physical and moral degeneration. Every community, therefore, was urged to co-operate heartily with state and nation in an attempt to regenerate country life and make it more attractive and profitable.

An address on "Art Commissions for the State and City" was delivered by Mr. Andrew Wright Crawford, Field Secretary of the American Civic Association. His remarks were illustrated by lantern slides of bridges, public buildings and other structures which had been submitted to the Art Jury of Philadelphia, of which he is a member, for approval; and, in support of his argument that art did not necessarily mean added expense, he stated that in the first ten or eleven submissions the saving in actual cost was estimated to be more than $41,000.

Another talk illustrated by lantern slides was given by Mr. George B. Ford of New York City on "Reconstruction of the Devastated Villages of France." Mr. Ford, formerly Consultant to the Committee on City Plan of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of New York, and one of the best known architects and city planners of the present day, went to France in the early years of the war, at first serving with the American Red Cross, and later with a French association of technical experts of all sorts, organized as a philanthropic body. Later, when the competition between French architects for the honor of drawing plans for the rebuilding of Rheims became so keen that a choice was difficult, Mr. Ford was summoned to undertake the task. Thus it is worthy of note that, while more than a century ago, at the request of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, Major Pierre Charles L'Enfant, a young French engineer, was employed to lay out the site for our National Capitol, an American city planner has now, at the request of French officials, completed plans for the reconstruction of the once beautiful city of Rheims.

Mr. Ford emphasized the fact that every city, town, and village within the devastated region must prepare and submit for approval a comprehensive plan for its development before being allowed to start its rebuilding program. Over 1,000 such plans have already been prepared and approved. He called attention to the fact that England, in July, 1919, passed a compulsory City Planning law, while Germany and other countries had passed such a law previous to the war, thus leaving America really the only country of the principal nations of the world that has not yet seen the light.

Other laws designed to promote development have been passed by the French authorities, one providing for the taking of land on practically the principles of excess condemnation, and others providing for the lending of money for home building by the Government at two per cent interest, to the extent of from sixty to eighty per cent of the value of the property, repayable in twenty-five years.

Another definite step in rebuilding has been the adoption of the co-operative plan in the purchase of goods and supplies. No less than 1,200 co-operative systems were said to be in force in the 2,600 destroyed villages.

Two other factors are worthy of note, i. e., that aviation fields are becoming a feature of French plans and that playgrounds, a system hitherto almost unknown in France, are now being planned in connection with every school.

Through the courtesy of citizens of the community an automobile excursion to Northampton, Old Deerfield, Hadley, Sunderland, and Greenfield was arranged. At Greenfield an opportunity was given to inspect the work of the Greenfield Homes Corporation. This consists of an actual housing development, 57 houses being already well on the way to completion, some of them occupied, and as many more planned for. The corporation was organized in January of the present year, pursuant to the recommendation contained in the report of the Housing Committee of the Greenfield Chamber of Commerce. The 1920 census returns showed an increase in population during the last ten years of 48.2 per cent, or a total of 15,462. This rapid growth tended to render the housing problem even more acute than in many other places, and in the investigation conducted it was apparent that there was a shortage of at least 1,000 homes in the community which fact was having the effect of holding back its industrial expansion. A meeting of manufacturers, merchants and business men was accordingly called and the Greenfield Homes Corporation was organized in January, 1920, with a capital stock of $250,000. Within thirty days after incorporation all of the material for the 100 houses which were contemplated was purchased. Most of the houses are single family, five, six, and seven rooms, with a few two-family semi-detached dwellings. The houses are being erected by local contractors, and a weekly pay roll at the prevailing rate of wages for the different branches of the building trades is assumed by the corporation. It is planned to sell all houses now under construction, or in contemplation, on the basis of a down payment of at least 10 per cent and a first and second mortgage; the second mortgage being amortized over a period not exceeding ten years. All earnings on investments are limited to 5 per cent, any earning above this percentage being used for the benefit of the development of the property. Today this stands, not only as an attractive housing development and a definite, tangible, constructive attempt to relieve the housing shortage and to promote industrial expansion, but it also stands as an inspiration to other communities which have practically the same problem to face.

In Holyoke an opportunity was afforded for a brief discussion of zoning conditions. It is already to a certain extent a naturally zoned city, its three canals on first, second and third level practically determining the location of its industries, with brick apartment houses and multiple dwelling houses nearby for its industrial workers, while its single family residential district stretches out into the suburbs. An order has been recently passed by the City Government providing for the appointment of a zoning commission to consist of representatives of the City Government, the Chamber of Commerce, the labor organizations, and the Women's Municipal League. How far the adoption of this act may have been influenced by the recent erection of two factories directly across from the High School building, in the midst of the residential district, may be left to conjecture.

An exhibition was held in connection with the convention, one of the features being a presentation in graphic form of the resources of Massachusetts. Assuming that a state plan could not be successfully made unless it be subject to and part of a national plan, the exhibit was divided into four different departments, i. e., national state, regional and town planning. The transportation problem was considered perhaps the most illustrative of the necessity of a national plan that would embrace all others. Two colored photographs were exhibited, one showing existing conditions throughout the state, its topographic features, and wooded and cultivated areas; and another showing what might be called a more complete development of the state's resources, showing the possibilities of our swamps, better uses for and control of our water system, a better transportation system both by highway and rail, in a word, a prophetic plan based upon a study of facts of all nature gathered from all sources.

Another set of maps showed tracts of land of not less than 5,000 acres and their relation to adjoining railroads upon which conditions were suitable for the employment of modern farm machinery. Over 200,000 acres were shown to be thus available, and in view of the fact that Massachusetts is said to grow $80,000,000 worth of agricultural products while it consumes $300,000,000 worth of agricultural products, these unused tracts of land assume more than ordinary significance.

At the business session which was attended by about twenty delegates from the various Planning Boards throughout the state, reports were received from Attleboro, Boston, Lexington, Quincy, Taunton, Westfield and Winchester.

The following resolution was submitted and unanimously adopted by the meeting:

Resolved, That the Executive Board of the Massachusetts Federation of Planning Boards urges the establishment in the Department of Public Welfare of a distinct division of Housing and Town Planning to carry on the work assigned to the Department of Public Welfare at the time of the abolition of the Homestead Commission, with a sufficient appropriation for 1920, to include a field secretary who will, among other things, seek to promote proper housing and city and town planning through local conferences in all communities in the state.

The commissioner of the Department of Public Welfare, who was present at the meeting, expressed himself as entirely in sympathy with the intent of the resolution and assured the delegates that he had already taken the preliminary steps and would do everything in his power to develop such a division in his department.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in the choice of:

Officers.—Preston Pond, Winchester, Chairman; Alfred B. Williams, Taunton, Vice-Chairman; Joseph Finberg, Attleboro, Treasurer; Arthur C. Comey, Cambridge, Secretary.

Executive Committee.—Horace Gale, Natick, one year; William Roger Greeley, Lexington, two years; Charles B. White, Haverhill, three years.

Respectfully submitted,

E. M. HERLIHY,
Secretary.

PLANS FOR MEETING UNEMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS.

Boston 9, December 15, 1920.

MR. THOMAS A. MULLEN, Chairman Committee on Americanism, 305 City Hall Annex, Boston 9, Mass.:

DEAR SIR,—While I most earnestly hope that the present amount of unemployment will decrease as the winter progresses, it is not, of course, possible for us to accurately forecast the situation that will confront us in a month, two months, or three months, and we should therefore be prepared for any eventuality.

Some suitable agency should immediately begin to work out plans for caring for any considerable amount of unemployment; that is, such a condition as regards unemployment as might readily be regarded as a public exigency. I know of no agency in a better position to do this work than the Committee on Americanism, particularly as the committee in the course of its work is brought into very intimate relations with the working classes, and therefore would have a basic knowledge of general conditions which would be necessary to successfully prosecute the work in question.

I therefore request your committee to study the employment situation immediately and to work out plans for coping with it and solving it in case the need arises.

Very truly yours,

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

CONTRACT EXTENDED.

Boston, December 10, 1920.

GENTLEMEN,—You are hereby notified that your contract, dated July 6, 1920, for rebuilding Ashland Street Bridge, over the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, West Roxbury, has been extended from December 1, 1920, to May 1, 1921.

RECEIVING OFFICERS AT LONG ISLAND.

INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT,

Boston 9, December 13, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I purpose to re-establish the position of receiving officer at Long Island, which position was abolished some years ago.

The duties of receiving officer have been performed by an ex-inmate of Long Island, who has been carried on the payroll as an orderly. He is now too ill to work, and I plan to transfer John Newman, the present deputy superintendent of Rainsford Island, to the position of receiving officer at Long Island, and abolish the position of deputy superintendent at Rainsford Island. In addition to the care of commitments to the institution, he will be a sort of deputy to the superintendent, in supervising repairs, construction and general work about the plant. To take effect December 17th.

There is now a balance available on the interne pay roll, and I respectfully ask the transfer of $161.10 so that I may pay him at the rate of $1,400 per annum, which is the salary he is now receiving.

Yours respectfully,

THOMAS C. O'BRIEN, Commissioner.

PURCHASE OF BOATS FROM UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

Following for delays, etc., I will return to Boston not later than Sunday, December 19, 1920, or Monday, December 20, 1920.

Subject to your approval I hereby appoint Peter E. Walsh, Chief of Department, to be Acting Fire Commissioner, during the time I may be absent as above stated.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN R. MURPHY, Fire Commissioner.

SALARIES OF POLICE MATRONS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Police Department, November 29, 1920.
To the Honorable the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I respectfully ask your concurrence in establishing the following salaries of police matrons in this department.

I respectfully ask that you concur in raising the present compensation of the chief matron, assistant chief matron, and three matrons, all attached to the House of Detention, one hundred dollars ($100) per year each, which will make the salaries as follows:

Chief matron, $1,600 per year; assistant chief matron, $1,400 per year; three matrons, $1,200 per year each.

I respectfully ask your concurrence in paying in the future to the matron now attached to Station 14 and who is now paid at the rate of three dollars ($3) per call, a yearly compensation of $250. I find that such compensation is paid to the matron attached to Station 7, whose calls average less than those of the matron attached to Station 14.

I respectfully ask your concurrence in reducing the pay of the matron attached to Station 6 from $620 per year to $350 per year, for the reason that she averages only about forty calls per year and the present compensation of $620 appears to be out of proportion to that paid to other police matrons performing similar service.

The foregoing increases and decrease to take effect simultaneously and as an entire scheme February 1, 1921.

Very respectfully,

E. U. CURTIS,

Police Commissioner for the City of Boston.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

AWARD OF CITY CONTRACTS.

Coun. WATSON offered the following:

City of Boston,
In the year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty.
An Ordinance.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

No officer in charge of a department shall make a contract with or award a contract to any person who is not a citizen of the United States, and every such officer in calling for bids on any contract shall insert a clause specifying that bids from noncitizens will not be considered.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, there has been considerable publicity in the papers of late concerning the lack of bidders on city work. There has been a great deal of talk among worthy citizens of Boston in the contracting business about their lack of ability to compete with a certain class of bidders on city work, more particularly in the Public Works Department. I have inquired and secured data relative to contracts awarded by the several city departments in the past six or seven years, and was surprised to find that in a great many cases noncitizens of the United States were awarded contracts in the several departments because of being the lowest bidders against citizens of the United States who perhaps bid a trifle higher than those who secured the contract. I came to the conclusion that it was high time that the City of Boston, at least, should show its friendship for and desire to help our citizens by seeing that they secured the contracts in city departments as against noncitizens. I found one particular case where a noncitizen, an alien, had received contracts from the City of Boston to the extent of nearly $600,000 in less than four years, as against other bidders who were citizens who perhaps bid a trifle higher. And for that reason I have introduced this ordinance. The city now protects citizens in the matter of employment by the city, it being provided that none but citizens of the United States shall be given employment by the city. If such a provision is fair in that case it is fair in the case of contracts. I might go on and enumerate many other cases, amounting to a considerable sum of money, where noncitizens of the United States—not of Boston, but of the United States—have secured contracts. I might read off a great many names, if I desired, but I don't desire at this time to make public the names of individuals, because it might be thought that my opposition was being directed at a particular class. But if the City of Boston and the United States of America are good enough to receive contracts from and the money resulting from the performance of those contracts, they certainly are good enough to become citizens of. There is a class in our community that is making no effort to become citizens. Some may raise the question that the shortness of time they are here prohibits their being citizens, but many of them have not even started the first movement to become citizens, have not filed their first papers or announced their intention. It is common talk that many of them are accumulating large sums of money to get back to their home countries and take back with them to their home countries American dollars that belong to American citizens. I am not bigoted concerning race, religion or color, but I am a little mite prejudiced in favor of doing unto our own citizens what other countries do unto their own citizens. I might go into this matter more in detail, but I think I have said sufficient to warrant the introduction of the order at least. I hope it will be referred to the Executive Committee, and that there will be a speedy report upon it.

The ordinance was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

TRANSFERS IN BUDGET.

CONSUMPTIVES' HOSPITAL
DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON 9, December 13, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The Trustees of the Consumptives' Hospital request the following transfers within the budget:

1. From the appropriation for A-1, Attendant Nurses, $253.34, to the appropriation for A-1, Assistant Resident Medical Officers, $253.34.

Reason.—At the time the budget was made up, it was not expected that a full complement of assistant resident medical officers would be obtained throughout the year, and a sum equal to a full complement for the year was not asked for. The hospital has been more successful in obtaining them than in previous years, and a deficit to the above amount has occurred.

2. From the appropriation for A-1, Technician, $6, to the appropriation for B-3, Advertising and Posting, $6.

Reason.—No appropriation was asked for under Advertising and Posting in the budget because it was not expected that there would be a need for it. It was necessary to advertise one contract, to be paid for under B-39, General Plant, as it was found it would amount to over $1,000.

3. From the appropriation for A-1, Head Nurses at $780 a year, $650; A-1, Special Investigator, $202.10, $852.10, to the appropriation for B-8, Light and Power, $852.10.

Reason.—The increased amount of light consumption is due in part to the greater number of concerts, etc., given over previous year, the increased use in the X-ray room, the use in the "Occupational Therapy" room and the weather conditions during a long and dark winter necessitating an increased use of light and an increased use in power for the motor generators making the current used for motors and in part to the fact that the coal charge was over $300 more than last year.

4. From the appropriation for A-1, Assistant Farmers, $104.94, to the appropriation for B-13, Communication, $104.94.

Reason.—The increased use of the telephone.

5. From the appropriation for F-13, Industries, $135, to the appropriation for B-17, Care of Persons, $135.

Reason.—To pay for board and care at the Sharon Sanatorium of a nurse who has been at the hospital for several years and has developed tuberculosis of the lungs.

6. From the appropriation for A-1, Technician, $60.68, to the appropriation for C-13, Tools and Instruments, $60.68.

Reason.—Because tools and instruments purchased during the year increased in price over what they were at the time the appropriations were made, and the purchase of some of them became necessary on account of an emergency caused by the bursting of a water main leading to the hospital.

7. From the appropriation for A-1, Laundresses at $420 a year, $395.52, to the appropriation for D-4, Forage and Animals, $395.52.

Reason.—That the deficit is due to the increased cost of hay and beet pulp and the fact that we were obliged to feed our cattle with beet pulp rather than brewery grain which was formerly used, and which cannot now be obtained.

8. From the appropriation for A-1, Nurses, $660 to $720 a year, $478.04, to the appropriation for D-5, Medical, Surgical and Laboratory $478.04.

Reason.—This money was needed because, at the time the extra money was asked, there were very few supplies on hand. The increased expenditure is due largely to the increased expense chargeable to the X-Ray Department, and also to the increased cost of alcohol, gauze and other material.

9. From the appropriation for A-1, Assistant Farmers, $133.18, to the appropriation for D-13, Chemicals and Disinfectants, $133.18.

Reason.—$122.36 of this was for ammonia, which is used in the refrigeration of hospital refrigerators and in making ice. A new drum of ammonia was needed and its purchase could not be out off.

10. From the appropriation for A-1, Assistant Farmers, $208.86, to the appropriation for D-16, General Plant, $208.86.

Reason.—The deficit occurs here because of the increased price in lubricating oils, and had to be incurred in order to save the machinery in use.

11. From the appropriation for A-1, Maids, $174.11, to the appropriation for E-1, Building, $174.11.

Reason.—The increased cost of building material is undoubtedly responsible for our inability to live within the budget items.

12. From the appropriation for A-1, Laundresses at $420 a year, $212.29, to the appropriation for E-9, Machinery, $212.29.

Reason.—Purchase of regulators on the hot water boilers which had given out.

13. From the appropriation for C-12, Medical, Surgical and Laboratory, $350, to the appropriation for D-2, Food and Ice, $350.

Reason.—The estimate made when asking for a previous transfer proved to be too small.

Yours very truly,
JAMES J. MINOT, Secretary.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully request that the following transfers be made in the Law Department appropriation:

From the appropriation for C-10, Library, $45; -C-9, Office, $25; B-13,

Communication, $27.22, to the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, Margaret G. O'Neil, Stenographer, $97.22.

This transfer is necessary to take care of Miss O'Neil's salary for this year.

Yours respectfully,

Respectfully,

J. ALFRED MITCHELL,
City Auditor.

Approved December 20, 1920.

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

In explanation of the foregoing I wish to submit the following:

B-3, Transportation of Persons.—This item provides for the car fares of the inspectors and employees of the department. There is no actual way of figuring the expenditures in this line and as same have to be sworn to it is conclusive that the obligation was contracted.

B-5, Cartage and Freight.—This is the second deficit in this item during the year. Same has been caused by changes made in locations of some of the departments situated in City Hall Annex building, a feature that was not thought of or even considered, when the budget figures were made up.

B-8, Light and Power.—This deficit is caused by the excessive use of our halls during the year by the American Legion Posts and other war activities that are still in existence.

B-36, Boiler Inspection.—This deficit is caused by the presentation of a belated bill from last year which had to be met out of this year's appropriation.

C-1, Tools and Instruments.—Deficit caused by abnormal prices for these commodities.

D-1, Office.—The articles furnished under this particular item are principally forms used by the department. It was necessary to have more printed during the year than was anticipated.

D-8, Laundry, Cleaning and Toilet.—This deficit was caused by abnormal prices. The same condition will obtain as far as D-3, Fuel, is concerned.

Respectfully yours,

FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

REGISTRY DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON 9, December 15, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I herewith request your approval of the transfer of the sum of $160.75 from Item A-1, Permanent Employees, 14 Clerks at $1,050-$1,250, to Item D-1, Supplies; also the sum of $4.85 from Item C, Equipment, 9, to Item B-39, General Plant. This request is necessary on account of the increased cost of supplies.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD W. MCGLENEN,
City Registrar.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

SIR,—Under authority of section 3 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, I will,

with your approval, make the transfers herein requested.

Respectfully,
J. ALFRED MITCHELL,
City Auditor.

Approved December 17, 1920.

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

SEALING OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES' DEPARTMENT.

SEALER'S OFFICE, December 16, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—I respectfully request that the following transfers be made on the budget: From the appropriation for B-14, Motor Vehicle Care and Repair, to the appropriation for B-4, Transportation of Persons, $3.72; B-35, Fees, Service of Venires, etc., $11.50; B-39, General Plant, Repairs, $2.04.

Total, $17.26.

On B-4 we figured on the budget for $20. Owing to the weather conditions last January our cars were out of commission and we were forced to use the street railway service more than we anticipated.

On B-35, we asked for $37. New rulings and larger fees were made by the Highway Commission. When we put six new cars into commission to replace six old cars we were forced to pay $2 per car for a new registration. We had 50 cents balance hence ask for $11.50 transfer to meet this emergency.

On B-39, we figured that an installation of a motor in the office would cost about $41, including service. The extras found necessary made the bill figure $43.04, hence the shortage of $2.04. All these cases were emergency cases.

Respectfully yours,

CHARLES B. WOOLLEY.

BOSTON 9, December 16, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—Under authority of section 3 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, I will, with your approval, make the transfers herein requested.

Respectfully,

J. ALFRED MITCHELL,
City Auditor.

Approved December 17, 1920.

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

COUNTY BUILDINGS.

BOSTON 9, December 17, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully request the following transfers within the appropriation of the Public Buildings Department (County Buildings), the same being to meet deficits in certain items in the County Buildings draft, January 1, 1920: From the appropriation for D-3, Fuel, $108.95, to the appropriation for B-39, General Plant, $102.95; F-7, Pensions and Annuities, $6.

Total, $108.95.

Regarding the foregoing, I wish to say that the deficit in B-39, General Plant, was caused by our not having enough money to go through with this particular line of work, as we asked for $7,000 in the budget and were only allowed $5,000.

The deficit in F-7, Pensions, occurs, owing to the fact that there were only fifty-two weeks provided for in the budget, where in reality there were fifty-three weeks, this being paid on the monthly roll.

Respectfully yours,

FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—Under authority of section 3 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909 I will, with your approval, make the transfers herein requested.

Respectfully,

J. ALFRED MITCHELL, City Auditor.

Approved December 20, 1920.

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

SUPERIOR COURT.

BOSTON, December 16, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I request that a transfer be made from Item D-1 of the appropriation for this department to Items B-13 and B-39 of the same appropriation, as hereinafter specified.

The transfer to Item B-13 is necessary in order that the November telephone bill may be paid. Prior to this year the bills for most of the telephone service for this office were charged to the Suffolk County Courthouse appropriation and no figures were available as to the exact cost of such service, I therefore estimated $290 and now find I was $26.93 too low.

Item B-39 is insufficient because it has been necessary owing to the alterations now being made in this office to employ men outside of office hours to move the files, records and equipment.

Transfer from Item D-1 to Item B-13, $26.93.

Transfer from Item D-1 to Item B-39, $44.71.

Respectfully,

FRANCIS A. CAMPBELL, Clerk.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—Under authority of section 3 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, I will, with your approval, make the transfers requested herein.

J. ALFRED MITCHELL,
City Auditor.

Approved December 20, 1920.

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

MUNICIPAL COURT OF THE DORCHESTER DISTRICT.

DORCHESTER, December 15, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Will you kindly have a transfer made in the budget of this court from B-4 to D-1, in the sum of $75. This is rendered necessary because of extra expense incurred in the printing of court blanks.

Very truly yours,

ALPHEUS SANFORD, Clerk.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

SIR,—Under authority of section 3 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, I will, with your approval, make the transfer herein stated.

Respectfully,

J. ALFRED MITCHELL, City Auditor.

Approved December 17, 1920.

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, December 21, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask permission to make the following transfers in the Fire Department appropriation for 1920-21:

From the appropriation for B-5, Cartage and Freight, to the appropriation for C-4, Motor Vehicles, $291.

From the appropriation for B-15, Motorless Vehicle Repairs, to the appropriation for B-8, Light and Power, $1,350.

From the appropriation for B-35, Fees, Service of Venires, Etc., to the appropriation for B-29, Stenographic, Copying, Indexing, $30; C-7, Furniture and Fittings, $193.

From the appropriation for C-2, Machinery, to the appropriation for B-41, Horseshoeing and Clipping, $2,000.

From the appropriation for C-3, Electrical, to the appropriation for C-1, Cable, Wire, Etc., $455.

From the appropriation for C-6, Stable, to the appropriation for C-17, General Plant, $413.

From the appropriation for C-10, Library, to the appropriation for C-13, Tools and Instruments, $171.

From the appropriation for C-14, Live Stock, to the appropriation for C-4, Motor Vehicles, $1,025.

From the appropriation for C-16, Wearing Apparel, to the appropriation for C-4, Motor Vehicles, $7,633.

From the appropriation for D-8, Laundry, Cleaning, Toilet, to the appropriation for C-13, Tools and Instruments, $408.

From the appropriation for D-11, Motor Vehicles, to the appropriation for C-9, Office, $1,138; E-1, Building, $1,105.

From the appropriation for E-13, General Plant, to the appropriation for C-4, Motor Vehicles, $2,889.

The deficit under C-4 (Motor Vehicles) is due to the fact that when the contract was made for replacing Engines 10 and 37 with motor-pumping engines the contracts were not delivered at this office but were retained in the Supply Department. The bookkeeper at Fire Headquarters, as a result, charged the contract price against another item in the budget, understanding that it was a repair job. This was explained to your Honor in my letter of June 28, 1920.

The deficit under B-8 (Light and Power) is due to increased consumption of electricity. This increase in consumption is due to moving of the Wire Division office to Fire Headquarters, the maintenance of the new Wareham street garage, the installation of new machinery at the repair shop and the charging of many additional batteries caused by the installation of new fire apparatus.

The deficit in B-29, Stenographic and Copying, was caused by work incidental to the installation of a new apparatus record in the Fire Department.

The original estimate in the budget for C-7, Furniture and Fittings, was cut $500. The cost of materials under this item has increased so much that a deficit of $193 has resulted.

The deficit of $2,000 under B-41, Horseshoeing and Clipping, is due to a large number of horses hired by the department during the severe winter of 1919-20, and to the fact that the cost of horseshoeing was increased 25 per cent during the year.

The $455 deficit in C-1, Cable, Wire, etc., is due to the increased cost of material.

C-17, General Plant, deficit $413. This deficit is due to increased cost of material and the purchase of a pathoscope for the Department Officers' School.

The deficit under C-13, Tools and Instruments, is normal in my opinion. The original estimate in the budget for this item was cut $2,000.

C-9, Office, deficit $1,138. This deficit is due to the purchase of various filing appliances and adding machines connected with the reorganization of the repair shop and department. These appliances and machines were purchased with the approval of the certified public accountant who has charge of changing the methods of accounting in the department.

The deficit under E-1, Building, is due to the increased cost of materials and labor and the activities in the department.

Yours very truly,

JOHN R. MURPHY,
Fire Commissioner.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—Under authority of section 3, chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, I will, with your approval, make the transfers requested herein.

Respectfully,

J. ALFRED MITCHELL,
City Auditor.

Approved December 22, 1920.

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

CHARLESTOWN MUNICIPAL COURT.

BOSTON, DECEMBER 20, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In budget estimates for the current year, I estimated that the Special Justices would hold court fifty-five days at $10.53 per day, amounting to $579.15.

I find that fifty-nine days should be paid for from the current year's appropriation; six sessions held in the last days of December, 1919, and fifty-three held in 1920 to date. Bills covering these fifty-nine days have been submitted to the auditor.

The amount available in A-2, Temporary Employees, is sufficient to meet the deficiency of $42.12 to cover the underestimate of four days.

I respectfully request transfer:

From the appropriation for A-2, Temporary Employees, Clerk, 1 at $8.68 per day, $60.40, to the appropriation for A-2, Temporary Employees, Special Justices, 2 at $10.53, per day, $60.40.

Very respectfully,

MARK E. SMITH, Clerk.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—Under authority of section 3 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, I will, with your approval, make the transfer herein requested.

Respectfully,

J. ALFRED MITCHELL,
City Auditor.

Approved December 22, 1920.

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor.

BOSTON, DECEMBER 20, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—It has just been brought to my attention that the two assistant clerks of this court were paid sums totaling $239.39 in November, 1920, on executions from the Superior Court issued on suits brought by them for salary due them for services in 1918-19, and I presume that the auditor paid the executions from our appropriation for A-1.

Therefore the unexpended balance of the appropriation for A-1, Personal Services of Permanent Employees, for this court lacks $239.39 of the amount necessary to meet the current pay roll for the month of December.

I find that some $500 will be left unexpended of the appropriation for A-2 at the end of the fiscal year.

I request that the following transfer may be made in the appropriations for this court:

UNITED STATES SUBCHASERS TO BE CONSIGNED TO BOSTON AS POLICE BOAT AND FIREBOAT.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
December 18, 1920.

HON. A. J. PETERS,
Mayor of Boston.

MY DEAR MR. MAYOR,—Confirming my conversation with Mr. John R. Murphy, Fire Commissioner of the City of Boston, I beg to advise you that it is agreeable to the Navy Department to loan two subchasers from those now on sale, together with such equipment and outfit as may be on hand, to the City of Boston for use as a fireboat and police boat, respectively.

This loan will be made with the understanding that the ownership of the vessels is vested in the United States and the title remains in the Navy Department and, in case of necessity, these vessels will be returned to the use and custody of this department.

It is further understood that the Navy Department is to be put to no expense whatsoever in connection with any repairs that may be required on these vessels when they are turned over to the City of Boston, and that while they are in the custody of the City of Boston that municipality will be responsible for their care, preservation and upkeep.

It is also understood that when these vessels are operated by the City of Boston as police and fire boats they will be used to assist the navy as well as for the purposes of the City of Boston.

The following subchasers remain on sale in the First Naval District; and, in addition, there are a number on sale in the Third Naval District, New York City, from which to make a selection:

Nos. 35, 39, 109, 125, 130, 216 and 220.

It is, therefore, suggested that you communicate with the Commandant, First Naval District, at the Navy Yard, Boston, Mass., or the Commandant, Third Naval District, Twenty-ninth street and Third avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., with view of selecting two subchasers from among those remaining on sale, and, immediately upon receipt of your communication indicating the two subchasers, by number, which you have selected, the department will issue orders to the Commandant of the district to promptly turn these vessels over to such duly authorized representative as you may designate in your letter to receive and receipt for them.

Very truly yours,

JOSEPHUS DANIELS,
Secretary of the Navy.

CITY PLANNING BOARD REPORT ON UNUSED CHARITABLE FUNDS.

BOSTON, December 14, 1920.

HON. ANDREW J. PETERS,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The City Planning Board submits herewith its final report with regard to statements made by Mr. Raymond P. Delano, legislative counsel for the Dorchester Board of Trade, with reference to the limited state laws which apply to certain charitable corporations and funds held for the benefit of the citizens of a town. In this connection Mr. Delano stated that they had taken up the matter of charitable funds and the unused and unexpended balances thereof with his Excellency the Governor and also with the former bank commissioner and that, according to the best estimate of the Dorchester Board of Trade, there was existent in this Commonwealth today some nine or ten millions of dollars of unexpended charitable funds which, accumulating for years, have been held by bankers, banking houses, committees, societies, organizations and individuals. In many cases the original organizations were said to have ceased to exist, or the responsible individuals to have died, but that the accumulated funds remain and should be put to their proper use.

These statements were made at a conference which was held in this office on Monday, July 12, 1920, and afterwards confirmed by letter under date of July 17, 1920, a copy of which is attached herewith. (See Appendix 1.) The City Planning Board felt that the statements made constituted a serious charge which should be either verified or refuted beyond question. Perhaps its most direct interest in the matter at that time lay in the possibility, if such funds were in existence, of their being made available, possibly through legislative act, for housing purposes. The matter was accordingly referred to your Honor, who thereupon authorized the City Planning Board to take such steps as might be necessary to obtain authentic lists of such unexpended balances of funds gathered by public subscription for charitable purposes as might be in existence at the present time.

CONCLUSIONS.

The live accounts reported total an approximate number of 100, but in none of the cases coming to the notice of the City Planning Board has the balance represented any material amount, nor has there been any information received which would indicate that there was in the possession of any of these banks or banking houses any unexpended balances which would be available, through legislative act or otherwise, for any purpose other than that for which it was originally raised, and in the interests of which—practically without exception—it is being expended at the present time.

The banks and banking organizations have been co-operative and helpful to the last degree. The survey was made at a time when financial circles were in a more or less disturbed condition, and at the best, accounts of this sort, frequently deposited in the name of an individual or of a committee, are rather difficult to identify. Again, the objection might easily have been raised by the different organizations that it would be a breach of business ethics to furnish the information requested with regard to any of their depositors, but in no case was this done. On the contrary, lists and balances have been submitted, access given to books and accounts and every assistance possible freely tendered.

So far as the City Planning Board is able to ascertain, therefore, the only funds in existence in this city today, bearing any resemblance whatever to the situation outlined by Mr. Delano on behalf of the Dorchester Board of Trade, are those held in trust by the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company, and the origin of these funds and their method of distribution are so foreign to the case as to render their further consideration entirely unnecessary.

The City Planning Board, therefore, respectfully submits that as a result of their investigations with regard to balances remaining from unexpended charitable funds, they find no evidence to substantiate the charges made by Mr. Raymond P. Delano, legislative counsel for the Dorchester Board of Trade.

Respectfully yours,

THE CITY PLANNING BOARD,
R. A. CRAM, Chairman.

CONTRACT FOR DISPOSAL OF ASHES AND GARBAGE.

STATEMENT BY MAYOR PETERS.

Commissioner Sullivan of the Public Works Department received a communication from the Boston Development and Sanitary Company yesterday notifying him that if the city did not agree to increase the contract price for the disposal of ashes and garbage $25,000 per month, commencing January 1, 1921, and continuing until July 1, 1922, they would abandon the work and close their plant on December 31 of this year.

This proposal was considered by the committee recently appointed to investigate the entire subject of collection and disposal of garbage, and the committee, consisting of:

Dr. William C. Woodward, Chairman,
Francis R. Bangs, Guy W. Emerson,
Richard W. Garrity, Joseph P. Lyons,
Thomas F. Sullivan, Prof. C. E. Turner,
Frank L. Young,

unanimously recommended that the proposal be rejected and that, in the event of the threatened default taking place, the city proceed under the terms of the contract to take over the equipment of the contractor and operate their plants. This contract does not in any way involve the collection of ashes and garbage but relates only to the disposal after collection. Under the terms of the original contract the Development Company would be paid $13,000 per month during the year 1921.

CONDITIONS AT COURTHOUSE.

The following was received:

Court House, Pemberton Square,
Boston, December 8, 1920.

To the County Commissioners of Suffolk County, the Mayor and City Council of Boston, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, the Police Commissioner and Fire Commissioner of the City of Boston:

Gentlemen,—With the granting of full citizenship to women, we will soon be confronted with the problem of their right and duty to serve as jurors. This will mean an extensive and expensive alteration of the court house in order to furnish them with adequate waiting rooms and toilet accommodations.

The present conditions in the court house are unspeakable, particularly on the first and second floors of the north wing, where criminal courts are held. Forced to attend by summons or to protect personal interests, scores of people, men, women, children, meddlers and fixers are huddled together outside the Municipal and Superior Courts for criminal business in corridors having no ventilation, poor lighting, a few wooden benches for the early comers, inadequate toilet facilities, no means to wash, and poor means of securing drinking water. No improvement in a hundred years! Conditions are probably worse owing to the increase in numbers daily attending.

There should be a large waiting room for male witnesses in civil cases and another for those in criminal cases; the same for women and children. The latter should have one or two matrons in charge to care for the children. There should be facilities for checking in safety outer garments and bundles. When a case is called or about to be called, court officers could go to the rooms, announce the case, call the witnesses and escort them to the trial court.

The department stores give some such accommodation to women and children. The hotels offer the public infinitely better toilet facilities free of charge, as do many of the cheap lunch rooms. Will Boston deny common decencies to those compelled to attend the courts?

There might well be also a waiting room for lawyers, as near as possible to the law library, where those waiting for cases could spend their time to some advantage, or, at least, with some comfort. All of the waiting rooms would, of course, be connected by telephone with the various court rooms.

To provide for female jurors and to secure for waiting witnesses some measure of comfort and to take advantage of the upset surely to be met with in making provisions for female jurors, I am led to make the following suggestion.

For some time the citizens have witnessed the frequent refusal of the City Council to adopt a new site for Police Station 2, as recommended by the Police Commissioner. I believe it is true that the number and location of police stations have remained practically unchanged for fifty years. The present police stations have seen populations change in character and then in some cases entirely disappear to make way for business.

The telephone, police signal, private night watch and signal service, automobile police patrol wagons—all these things and others have changed conditions in both police and fire service.

Wherefore, I suggest that the Legislature be petitioned to give the city the right to take by eminent domain and to finance a site and building adequate for the accommodation of Police Headquarters, Police Stations 2 and 3, and the Municipal Court for criminal business.

The new building might include also the Municipal Court for civil business, the Probate Court, or the Superior Court for criminal business, District Attorney's office and grand jury rooms. With the courts would, of course, go the probation departments and clerks' offices. I mention the Probate Court because it has always seemed to me that the room where the women are employed is absolutely improper and unhealthful, situated as it is in the basement of the court house.

With the removal of all or most of the above-named departments from the court house, room would thus be provided for the needs mentioned.

I have included the Fire Commissioner with the others addressed because it seemed to me that the site of the old Revere House would be an admirable location, and if chosen it should include the engine house in its rear on Bulfinch street and provide for new adequate quarters covering the present site but connected with the new building and perhaps available also for other uses of the Fire Department, headquarters, etc., as well as for some of the purposes above mentioned.

Another fine site would be the corner of Beacon and Somerset streets, which might be connected by tunnel with the present court house.

In any event, such a building should have the greatest available light and air possibilities.

The extension of the court house down to Howard street might also be considered; or its extension along Pemberton square to Barristers Hall, including the present Police Headquarters; or its extension by arching over Pemberton square and taking in the buildings from Houghton-Dutton's on Somerset street down Pemberton square to their building there.

It would be worth considering, if possible, Boston's eyesore, the Siegel building, a part of which might be taken for the purposes above described in the hope that it would bring some life and activity to this forlorn portion in the very heart of the city.

The sale of Stations 2 and 3, the saving of rental now paid for Police Headquarters would help some in the financing of the proposition.

They say Boston is going backward! Never; but it must not be permitted to remain at a standstill in civic improvements, and my unbounded confidence in the people of the city leads me to believe that they are not miserly and will readily support any proposition honestly based on common decency and improved public service.

Respectfully submitted,

J. C. PELLETIER,
District Attorney.

PLAN FOR COURTHOUSE, ETC.

Coun. HAGAN offered an order—That the President of the City Council appoint a special committee of five members with instructions to said committee to study the suggestions as advanced by Hon. Joseph C. Pelletier, District Attorney of Suffolk County, relative to the comprehensive plan for a courthouse and police station, and likewise to interview police officials and business men, and report back to the Mayor and City Council as to their conclusions regarding the District Attorney's suggestions.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, the subject-matter that is to be considered by this special committee when appointed is one that has been agitating the minds of the city government here for a period of a dozen or more years. It has a direct bearing upon Station 2 and the controversy now existing between the Mayor and the City Council. Evidently we are not getting anywhere as the Mayor and a majority of the members of the City Council are at loggerheads on that question. The District Attorney of Suffolk County, through the public press, has offered various suggestions lamenting and condemning the conditions existing at the courthouse and claiming that conditions are so deplorable that changes, radical changes in fact, should be made in that direction, and suitable arrangements made there or somewhere to provide for the proper functioning of the various courts of the county. I think it proper that suggestions from a man as important in our community as the District Attorney should receive some passing consideration; that we should at least go through the formality of making an intelligent study of the situation. The police station site as selected by the Mayor will not be approved by the City Council, the majority members of the City Council who are opposed to that site standing within their rights in my judgment and voting in accordance with their convictions in the matter; and it might be said even, on that subject, that evidently there is no popular demand noted from the public in support of the conclusions advanced by the Mayor and the Police Commissioner. During this period of controversy and while conditions remain as they are, the deplorable conditions of Station 2 must and will continue. There is not a man in the city government who does not know now and has not known for a period of years that the conditions in old Station 2 are a disgrace to the city, and while such conditions exist every effort should be made on the part of each and every one of us to do something of a really constructive nature to try to prevent a continuance of such conditions and to give to the Police Department such improved surroundings as they have been demanding. Boston has acted in this matter, as in all matters of the sort, in a piecemeal manner. Our subways, for example, were built without any general comprehensive plan, and they cost a great deal more money than they should have because of the lack of study in the early period of subway building. Our police system is in practically the same condition that it was forty-odd years ago—taking Police Station 1 on Hanoverstreet, for instance, which I can remember as a boy. No improvements or changes have been made. We all know the condition of the Joy street and La Grange street stations and the other old Boston police stations—that they are not modern in their arrangements and are unsanitary to a great degree. There has been continual complaint by the Police Department, and there is no question of doubt in my mind but that the old Police Department had good, justifiable, honest reasons for complaining of the way the City of Boston compelled them to live while discharging their duties as policemen. This Council has been criticised, whether correctly or not, by certain elements in the community for not doing constructive work. Here is an opportunity to deny that charge, to accomplish something, to present something to the Mayor and city government that is thoroughly constructive in its nature, involving a study of the entire situation, including the police district lines. The police districts as they are today have been in existence over forty years. In that time Boston has made no police progress. It seems to me other police lines, based on the changing population of the city, would be in order at the present time. Now that the suggestion has been made by the District Attorney that the courthouse has outgrown its present opportunities to function properly and that there will be in the near future another building required it seems to me there might well be a study of the whole problem, with a view to action by the Mayor and City Council. The object of this order is to have a special committee of the City Council appointed by the President to make a complete study of the entire situation as regards police station conditions and locations and improvements that are necessary, consulting with competent authorities, business men, police officials and others, getting their information anywhere and everywhere they can, so as to bring back to this body the results of a clear, comprehensive, intelligent study of the entire situation, and letting it be no longer said that this Council is doing nothing constructive in its nature.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.
